Around-Clock Bomber Alert Recommended

AF Leaders, Sen. Jackson Agree On Need

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States should keep part of its long-range bomber force aloft day and night so the Russians wouldn't dare attack even with heavy missile power, the Strategic Air Command's chief and a Democratic senator agreed Thursday.

Air Force Gen. Thomas S. Power and Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the American Legion's National Security Commission they felt it imperative to maintain the U. S. nuclear punch cocked and ready.

At the same time, Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, said in testimony to the House Armed Services Committee "the only sure protection against an ICBM — intercontinental ballistic missile—surprise attack would be an airborne alert."

While the three saw eye-to-eye on the need for a round-the-clock alert, they varied on the timing. Jackson implied he favored immediate action, estimating the first year cost of such a constant vigil at one billion dollars.

In a separate talk, Power indicated he felt the need for such an all-hours alert would become urgent in about two years, when he said the Russians conceivably could have stockpiled enough intercontinental missiles to strike a massive blow. The SAC chief said the concept has been tested thoroughly and found "entirely feasible."

White did not estimate when a full-time airborne alert might be needed. He said only that funds saved from the 1960 budget, together with new money sought from Congress and materiel on hand, "will give us the means to support an airborne alert operation, if it should be directed."

In his budget for the 1961 fiscal year, starting next July 1, President Eisenhower has asked for 90 million dollars to prepare for keeping some of the nation's nuclear bombers in the sky at all times, if it becomes necessary.

Chessman Due For New Rebuff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Louis E. Goodman told Caryl Chessman Thursday that he regards the trial record issue — which the convict-author has used to survive under death sentence for 11½ years—as finally decided.

Judge Goodman took Chessman's newest bid for freedom under advisement and said he would announce his decision at 2 p.m. Friday.

Chessman now is under sentence to die in San Quentin's gas chamber Feb. 19. Seven previous execution dates were postponed during Chessman's persistent appeals from his May 1948 conviction of kidnapping, robbery and perverted sexual assault against two Los Angeles women.

Chessman, who has devoted his death row years to intensive law study, took over as his own attorney early in Thursday's new habeas corpus hearing through which he seeks again to escape the gas chamber.

Judge Goodman quickly denied a series of Chessman motions aimed at another thorough re-examination of the Los Angeles trial court record.

Armed Police Crack Down On Rightists

Foes Of President Arrested In Paris, Other French Cities

PARIS (AP) — French police Thursday staged nationwide raids against rightists supporting anti-De Gaulle insurgents in Algeria.

Striking at dawn, armed police raided rightist homes and headquarters in such widely separated areas as Paris, Marseille, Bordeaux, and a dozen other cities.

The raids apparently were aimed at keeping the rightists off balance. Although there has been no such wave of sympathy for the Algerian insurgents as was displayed in May, 1958, during the last similar outbreak, the police showed no sign of lowering their guard.

With a precision that betrayed long planning, the police moved in on big and little fish alike.

The biggest fish were rightist Deputy Jean-Marie Le Pen and retired air force Gen. Lionel Chassin—both vocal opponents of De Gaulle and his Algerian policies and both figures in the 1958 Algerian rightists revolt that toppled the weak Fourth Republic.

The police were armed with 80 search warrants sworn out quietly Wednesday night by Judge Robert Magnin. Although these were not warrants for arrest, several rightists were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Le Pen was one of these, while Chassin was briefly questioned and allowed to go his way.

The widespread raids turned up a mass of literature, but police said nothing about anything else they may have found.

The display of force was emphasized in Paris when President Charles de Gaulle made a formal trip through the city to the musty building where the Council of State meets.

He was cheered by several hundred people, and among them were plain-clothes police in large numbers. The route he took through town was only about three-quarters of a mile, but it was lined every 20 feet with police, and more stood on the roof tops eying the crowds. De Gaulle seemed unconcerned. He was solemn and didn't acknowledge the cheers.

The note demanded that American troops get out of Japan.

As published by Tass Thursday, the note also warned of atomic reprisals in the event of another war. It said the new treaty, a fierce political issue and still facing parliamentary approval, will mean that Japan "loses her national independence."

The Japanese Foreign Office, in an unusually strong statement, said Gromyko had "criticized Japanese policies in threatening language."

Details of Gromyko's remarks were not reported by the Japanese or by Tass.

The Soviet note made withdrawal of foreign troops a condition for the return to Japan of Habomai and Shikotan, two small islands off Hokkaido.

To this, the Japanese Foreign Ministry replied that the Soviet Union has turned into "a mere scrap of paper" a 1956 agreement to return the islands when the two countries sign a World War II peace treaty. Talks on the treaty are deadlocked on Japanese demands for return of part of the Kurile Islands, taken by the Soviet Union at the end of the war under the Yalta agreement.

Chessman now is under sentence to die in San Quentin's gas chamber Feb. 19. Seven previous execution dates were postponed during Chessman's persistent appeals from his May 1948 conviction of kidnapping, robbery and perverted sexual assault against two Los Angeles women.

Chessman, who has devoted his death row years to intensive law study, took over as his own attorney early in Thursday's new habeas corpus hearing through which he seeks again to escape the gas chamber.

Russia's Khrushchev Keeps A Promise

Regina Leonas, 20, and her brother, Tomas, 17, pose with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paulus Leonas, at Midway Airport in Chicago yesterday after a long trip that started in Moscow. The parents, separated from children 16 years ago when the Russian Army overran Lithuania, wound up on the German side, and the children on the Russian side. A plea to Premier Khrushchev during his visit to the U. S. brought a promise of a reunion which was fulfilled yesterday. (AP Photofax)

Sen. Humphrey To Enter W. Va. Demo Primary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey announced Thursday he will enter West Virginia's Democratic presidential primary, and said he still is weighing a challenge from Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) to invade Nebraska.

At the same time, a Humphrey supporter officially entered New Hampshire's primary as a candidate for convention delegates favorable to Humphrey.

A Humphrey aide here said the New Hampshire action was taken without Humphrey's knowledge, however, and "does not represent an effort by Senator Humphrey to enter the New Hampshire primary."

The Minnesota Democrat, an admitted underdog in the pre-convention jockeying, indicated his final decision on Nebraska would be "no." He said he was going into West Virginia because he thought it offered a better "cross section" test than the midwest primaries.

Kennedy, in another development, formally ruled himself out of the April 12 Illinois presidential primary. He asked Charles F. Carpenter, Illinois secretary of state, to withdraw his name. It had been entered by Lar Daly, who once stirred up a rumup over the equal broadcast time guarantee for political contenders.

The West Virginia primary, to be held May 10, is the fifth such contest to which Humphrey has committed himself. He said he still was undecided about going into Maryland, which Kennedy hopes to win now that Gov. Millard Tawes has withdrawn as a favorite son candidate.

By inference, Humphrey challenged Kennedy to compete with him in West Virginia. "Since there are a number of candidates who want primaries, I invite them in," he said.

Kennedy has repeatedly expressed the view that any Democratic seeking the presidential nomination should put his popularity on the line.

Signals Raise Hopes Md. Couple Alive

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hope was raised Thursday that a Maryland couple missing in the Bahamas for a week may still be alive.

The Coast Guard said search planes heard two signals which might have come from Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dickson Jr. of Easton, Md., who overflew little Caicos Island in their Cessna last Thursday.

One plane reported hearing weak rapid signals on 83.64 kilocycles for five minutes starting at 10:40 a.m. Another plane said three of its crew members heard an SOS over 500 kilocycles at 11:35 a.m.

At that time the plane was in the vicinity of where Dickson and his wife ditched their plane.

The Coast Guard said 26 planes of the Coast Guard, Navy and Air Force continued a search for the missing couple. It was the biggest aerial search in this area in two years.

Separated By Iron Curtain Since 1944, Family Is Reunited

CHICAGO (AP)—A family separated for 16 years by the Iron Curtain was united Thursday in Chicago, thanks to the intercession of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Regina Leonas, 20, and her brother, Tomas, 17, both sobbing so hard they couldn't speak, completed their journey from Lithuania and met their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paulus Leonas of Chicago.

The mother, too, was all choked up. That left Leonas all the speaking chores.

"I've got my kids," Leonas said, smiling. "He — Khrushchev — kept his promise and I'm going to say so."

"This is the most exciting day of my life. There's been no such day since the world was created. My feelings can't be said in words. My heart is too small to hold them."

A crowd of more than 200 persons jammed about the big airliner that brought the children on the last leg of their long trip from their homeland, once Lithuania, now absorbed by the Soviet Union.

Many asked what Regina and Tomas were saying in Lithuanian to their parents.

"They say they don't know what to say," Leonas replied. Later he said they were exhausted from the trip and the attention given them at each stop along the route.

The crowd included many of European extraction who told newsmen they had kinsfolk behind the Iron Curtain and hoped that some day a similar reunion would be theirs. The group cheered loudly as the family walked into the terminal building and started for the Leonas home on the South Side.

Regina and Tomas had been living with their grandparents in Lithuanian territory since 1944. In that year they were separated from their parents who fled as the Russians were pushing the Germans out of the area.

In the intervening years the parents carried on constant efforts to regain the children. Last summer when the Soviet Premier was in Des Moines, Iowa, on his historic tour, Leonas spoke to him personally about the case.

NASA's long-range plans were given to the House Committee on Science and Astronautics, which is investigating the U. S. space program. Committee members, many of whom have criticized the program to date, received the 10-year plan enthusiastically.

Instead of shying away when the probable cost of such a program was mentioned, committee members tried to get NASA to ask for more right now to get things moving.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the space agency, which is seeking 802 million dollars for fiscal 1961 starting next July, obliged by saying a request for 100 million dollars additional probably will be made within a week.

The request has been anticipated ever since President Eisenhower indicated recently that a speed-up has been ordered in Project Saturn, the big rocket booster on which the United States is pinning its hopes of overcoming the Soviet lead in space exploration.

First Landing Of Man On Moon Seen In 1970s

WASHINGTON (AP)—American spacemen should be circling the moon and sending instruments to probe the mysteries of Mars within 10 years.

This glimpse of the future was given Thursday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which unveiled a 10-year plan for space exploration that will bring man to the threshold of a landing on the moon.

Any actual landing on the moon appears to lie in the 1970s, said Richard E. Horner, NASA associate administrator.

Before this decade is over, Horner said, the United States should be boosting 50,000-pound loads into space and have a permanent space station floating above the earth.

NASA's long-range plans were given to the House Committee on Science and Astronautics, which is investigating the U. S. space program. Committee members, many of whom have criticized the program to date, received the 10-year plan enthusiastically.

The request has been anticipated ever since President Eisenhower indicated recently that a speed-up has been ordered in Project Saturn, the big rocket booster on which the United States is pinning its hopes of overcoming the Soviet lead in space exploration.

Dr. T. Keith Glennan, NASA administrator, told the committee Wednesday Saturn's first stage should be completed a year earlier than originally planned.

NASA's 10-year plan, which reflects the Saturn speed-up, calls for first-stage testing in 1962. Saturn will harness eight existing intermediate range rocket engines into one vehicle with approximately 1,300,000 pounds of thrust.

The AMA appeared at the House hearing but were of little help, Blatnik said, adding that the AMA's attitude was disappointing.

"Despite this lack of cooperation from the one source which could have been helpful," Blatnik said, "we did learn a great deal about tranquilizing drug advertisements and their regulation."

"We learned, for instance, that many of them are introduced with a minimum of clinical testing."

The AMA, in a statement issued in Chicago, denied the charge.

"We have no record of requests coming to us from the Blatnik committee relative to the advertising of tranquilizers. The AMA has been active in fighting false and misleading advertising for 30 years, long before the Committee on Government Operations was established."

Bids Moslems Demonstrate Their Support

Gambles On French Settlers In Algiers Yielding Barricades

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—In a gamble to bring peace to Algeria President Charles de Gaulle's government Thursday exhorted the Moslems to demonstrate faith in him as the savior of their freedom.

The French President's chief civil representative here urged the nine million Moslems to rise and demonstrate their support of De Gaulle before the very eyes of the dissident French settlers who want to maintain French rule here at all costs.

"March in parades, freely and spontaneously cry, 'De Gaulle, vive De Gaulle,'" Delegate Gen. Paul Delouvrier urged. "You are going to aid in resolving the terrible trial that we are going through. It is for your real liberation."

A paradox of this situation is that many of the Moslems and many of the French have for years nurtured enmity on racial and cultural grounds. For five years elements of the Moslem community seeking to set up an independent Algeria have been fighting the cream of French soldiery, with many deaths on each side and mutual charges of savagery.

De Gaulle has been moving toward a policy of self-determination for Algeria. When he fired Gen. Jacques Massu, one of the Europeans' main hopes, they showed they had enough of this course. The insurgent settlers took effective control of Algiers, and 26 persons died Sunday as fighting went forward across street barricades.

"I have taken the risk of setting off civil war to avoid secession or the departure of De Gaulle," Delouvrier declared in a broadcast. "I have taken this risk because I have confidence in you, because I know the barricades will fall. Make them fall, crying, 'Vive De Gaulle.' Follow me, I beg of you."

Delouvrier's impassioned appeal—made with the full approval of De Gaulle—urged non-European residents to turn out in mass demonstrations to show insurgent French settlers the hour is too late to go it alone. Arabs, Berbers and other non-French North Africans in Algeria outnumber Algerian Europeans 9-1.

Delouvrier spelled out to the settlers and the army that this was De Gaulle's trump card and that he was playing it now.

The resident general painted these stark alternatives to De Gaulle's policies: "Either disorder and chaos in Algeria or secession with the Metropole—Metropolitan France—and the fall of the regime and disorder in France."

The request has been anticipated ever since President Eisenhower indicated recently that a speed-up has been ordered in Project Saturn, the big rocket booster on which the United States is pinning its hopes of overcoming the Soviet lead in space exploration.

TFC Program Includes Boat Safety Act

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission agreed Thursday to ask the General Assembly for broader authority over fishing matters, regulation of power and sail boats and development of a recreational program in Chesapeake Bay.

The legislative program was approved at a lengthy meeting of the five-member TFC. It agreed on a five-point program, but remained undecided on just how much authority it would ask for regulating fish nets, licenses and other matters now set forth in statutes.

Here are the major points agreed on Thursday:

1. Introduction of a boat act which would allow the TFC to license all boats in the state which are not manually operated, and prescribe safety regulations for them. These would include sailing vessels as well as power boats. The TFC would enforce the act in tidal areas and the Game and Inland Fish Department in non-tidal waters.

Funds derived from three-year licenses of $6 each would be used for development of waterways and administration of the act. No person under 12 would be allowed to operate a boat, unless in a regatta, and boats towing water skiers would be required to have a second person in the vessel at least 12 years old to watch the skier being towed.

The act would take effect June 1.

2. Development of recreational facilities in Chesapeake Bay. The TFC proposes a $150 annual license for all salt water anglers except those aboard party boats and the licensing of party boats at about $25 to $30 a year. It now costs nothing to fish in tidal waters of the state.

The revenues produced would be used for developing and advertising Chesapeake Bay area recreational facilities. A committee of sportsmen would be appointed to advise the TFC on how to best spend the money.

3. A department budget of $2,065,249, which had been disclosed previously. It carries increases of $800,000 over the present year with most of the boost to be spent on oyster development and propagation.

4. Repeal of the "50-per-cent law" which now requires oyster packers to give the state half of the shells left from oyster processing.

5. Regulatory powers over fish licenses, net sizes and some other matters relating to operation of the fisheries department.

Virkus Trial To Jury Today

BALTIMORE (AP) — The murder trial of a Minnesota youth headed for closing arguments by counsel, and then to the all-male jury Friday.

Testimony in the case of James E. Virkus, 19, former soldier stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., ended Thursday. Virkus is accused of stabbing to death a 49-year-old Baltimore furniture salesman, Philip D. Friedman, last June.

Friedman's body was found in some brush, his wallet and car missing. His car was seen two days later at Aberdeen, and a state trooper fired at Virkus wounding him, as he burst out the rear of a house.

Virkus' court-named attorney, William J. O'Donnell, put his client on the stand in Youth Court Thursday and explained his rights.

"I said all I have to say in the statement," the youth replied, adding he did not wish to testify. Virkus was referring to a statement given police earlier, which the prosecution put in evidence.

The defense called two witnesses, both of them Anne Arundel County policemen.

Patrolmen Edward Prieber and Charles G. Stinchcomb testified they arrested Friedman March 24, 1958, as he sat in his car with a 15-year-old boy in a wooded spot. Prieber said Friedman was held for investigation but no charges were placed because of "lack of evidence from the juvenile."

O'Donnell contended in his opening statement that Virkus stabbed Friedman to ward off an indecent assault.

The state called former neighbors of Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Chance, who told the jury that Friedman's reputation was "very good."

U.S. Coal Mine Deaths Drop To New Low

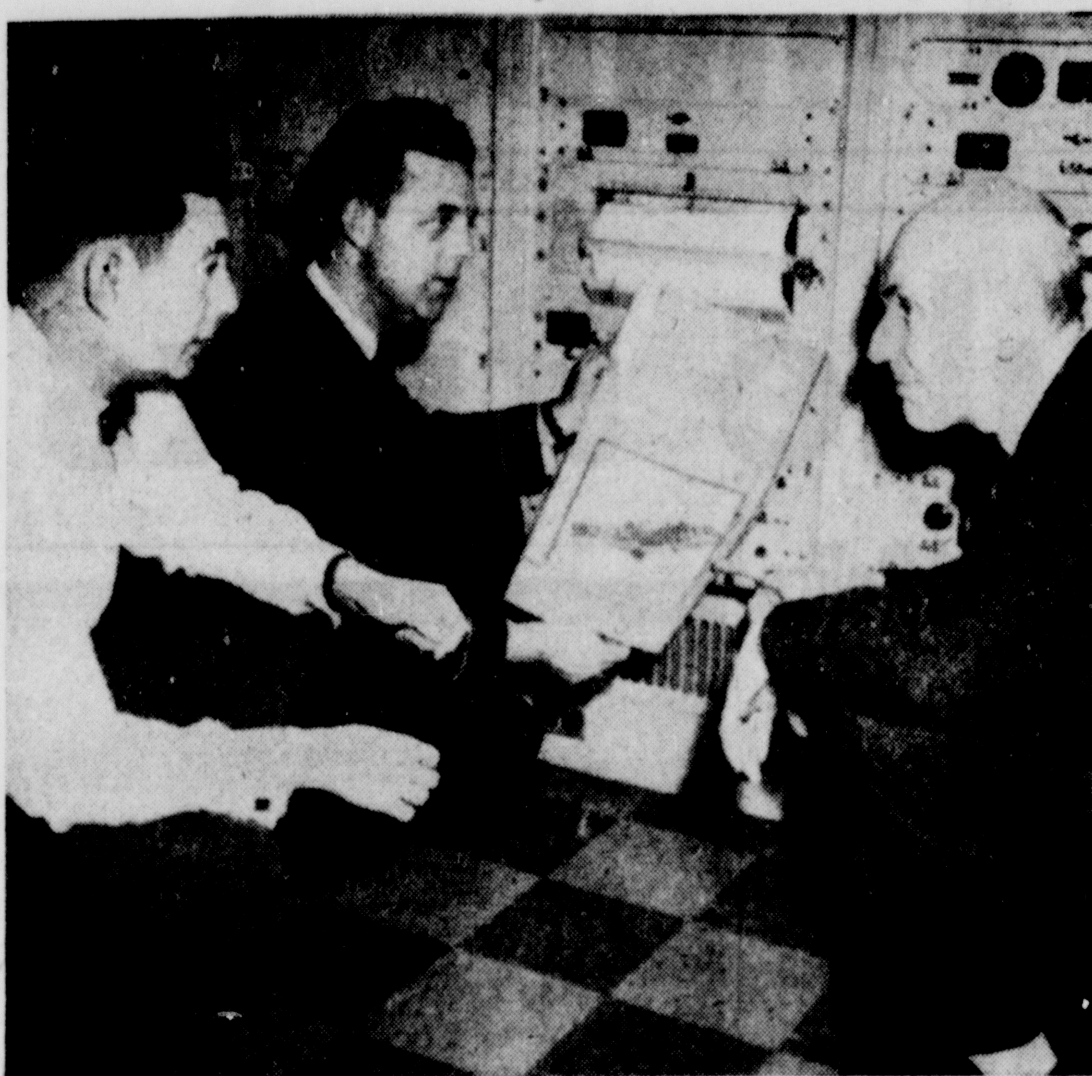

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were fewer deaths from coal mine accidents in this country during 1959 than in any year since 1880 when keeping of federal records was started.

Bureau of Mines statistics showed Thursday there were 290 fatalities reported last year in the bituminous coal, lignite and anthracite industries.

This was a reduction of 66 under the best previous record, 356 fatalities in 1958.

Heiress Agrees To Shun Lover Until He's Free

NEW YORK (AP) — Heiress Gamble Benedict, wan and shy, Thursday heard her family denounce her married lover as a "culprit and scoundrel." Then the 19-year-old girl promised a judge not to see him again as long as he has a wife.

Her pledge appeared to ease for the moment what the court called a "Roman holiday" of thwarted love, during which Gamble and her 35-year-old swain, Romanian-born Andre Porumbeanu, ran away together to Paris.

In dismissing Porumbeanu from her life—for the moment—the dark-haired Remington typewriter heiress left him the memory of a final smile, a demure glance of intimacy which she gave to him across a crowded courtroom.

Earlier, Porumbeanu had sent her the message: "Only in love is there truth."

Leaving the courtroom after Gamble's temporary renunciation, Porumbeanu told reporters: "I must comply with much chagrin to the order of the court and I am sure she will comply with the law. But I don't think her inner feelings for me have changed, and my feelings for her will never change."

"I love her very much," Miss Benedict also agreed in a private conference with State Supreme Court Justice Samuel M. Gold to go on living with her grandmother, Katherine Geddes Benedict. The elder woman has been adamant in opposing Gamble's romance with Porumbeanu. Nevertheless, Gold said, the girl still loves her grandmother.

Hawaiian Village Destroyed By Lava

KAPOHO, Hawaii, (UPI) — Molten lava flowed through the streets of this village Thursday, leaving blazing rubble where scores of homes had stood.

As the lava spread through town, Deputy Civil Defense Director Peter Pakele ordered everyone out of a group of houses at Kumu Beach, a few hundred yards away from Kapoho toward the ocean.

There was no verifiable count of the number of houses burned or covered by the lava. There were about 50 houses in Kapoho and more on the outskirts before the lava reached the town.

About half the village was destroyed and the lava flow was setting fire to the remainder of the buildings.

Three White Girls Mauled By Negroes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three white girls were mauled aboard a trolley Thursday by nine Negro boys, pupils at a special disciplinary school, police said.

They said 65 boys were in the trolley and that a number aided the girls in fighting off their assailants. One girl lost an undergarment and clothing of the other two was torn, investigators said. The nine boys were held on charges of assault and battery, and assault. None of the girls was injured, police said.

Test Proves Design Of Survival Capsule

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — An airman, afloat more than two days in a Lake Erie test of an Air Force survival capsule, suffered leg cramps Thursday. Despite his minor discomfort, the capsule's basic design probably will not be changed as a result of the 72-hour test, the Air Force indicated.

Airman I.C. Bruce C. Barwise of Bovey, Minn., said his right leg had stiffened some, but two Air Force doctors reported no marked change in his physical condition since he began the test.

Search For "Painless" Way To Ban Slots Urged

BRYANTOWN, Md. (AP) — David Hume, Charles County Democratic leader, urged the county commissioners Thursday night to support a study to make the elimination of slot machines there as economically painless as possible.

Hume's suggestion in a telegram to the commissioners came after Gov. Tawes said he would support a study on the social, moral and economic effects of slot machines in Maryland.

Hume, Democratic party treasurer in Maryland, noted that the machines contribute some $400,000 a year in taxes to Charles County—about one-fourth of the county budget. He has been a leading advocate of minimizing the importance of the machines as a financial factor in the county economy.

In the telegram to the commissioners, Hume also noted that Charles County residents will vote next fall on a proposal to limit to 35 the number of machines which may be operated in one establishment. He also mentioned the possibility that the machines eventually may be outlawed entirely.

Castro Supporters, Foes Clash In N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — A solemn public ceremony, organized to pay homage to a Cuban patriot, turned into a roughhouse scrap Thursday between supporters and opponents of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Police riot squads broke up the brief but spirited encounter in Central Park but not without suffering minor wounds and bruises. A dozen shouting, battling men from both factions were rounded up at the scene and questioned by police.

There were no serious casualties among the combatants.

Treasury Offers New Securities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Thursday offered a four-year nine-month note yielding just under 5 per cent interest to holders of 11½ billion dollars of maturing securities.

Holders of the issues coming due also will have a choice of a one-year certificate which will pay 4½ per cent interest.

Both of the new securities will be dated Feb. 15. The note will carry a 4½ per cent coupon rate but will be offered at 99½ per cent of face value, which boosts the yield to 4.93 per cent.

The two issues will be offered next Monday through Wednesday to holders of $11,363,000,000 of 3½ per cent certificates which mature Feb. 15 and 198 million dollars of 1½ per cent notes maturing April 1.

SRC Will Ask Assembly Untie Hands In Order To Speed Highway Program

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The General Assembly convening next Wednesday will be asked to make a key decision on the state's highway future.

Does it want a modern system of highways for its most heavily travelled routes in the next few years?

Or does it want to stick with the now outmoded "12-year" roads program and get the super-highways and busy regional roads finished in the 1970s along with lesser used routes?

Chairman John B. Funk and State Roads Commission members which took office with him last June have left no doubt how they feel.

"Untie the commission's hands so it can build a continuous system of major heavily travelled roadways within the next five years," Funk recommends in a pre-session report to the Legislature.

The SRC wants to take the 370 million dollars it anticipates in state and federal funds over the next five years and pump all but 40 million of it into a stepped-up construction of major traffic arteries.

The links needed to complete these cover about 375 miles and affect every section of the state, but make up only a portion of its highway system.

The 40 million dollar reserve would be held for more urgent improvements which might be needed in other primary and secondary roads scheduled for long range improvement in the 12-year program.

But for all practical purposes it would mean an official scrapping of the highway plan which was hailed in 1953 as the answer to Maryland's roads problems for years to come.

Funk says the program has been swamped by rising costs and changes in highway design to meet a traffic volume which could not be foreseen when enacted.

"The commission has spent about seven years worth of money and completed less than four years of actual work," he reported. At its present rate the 12-year program would stretch over 24 years.

"At the end of the program, Maryland would have a patchy network of partially completed arterial highways and partially modernized secondary roads," Funk said.

Gov. Tawes and the Legislative Council, between-session study arm of the General Assembly, have already given their approval to the SRC proposal. But it re-

Megalopolis Planning Now Urged By Funk

BALTIMORE (AP) — John B. Funk, chairman-director of the State Roads Commission, pictured for Maryland engineers Thursday an anticipated city of 30 million people 600 miles long, stretching from Boston to Richmond.

He said the nation's planners envision such a megalopolis by 1975.

And if that sounds far in the future, it's actually only 15 years away.

Funk discussed the future urban layout at the annual meeting of the Maryland Assn. of Engineers.

"In the Baltimore-Washington area alone," he said, "a population of five million is just around the corner."

And, he said, an urban area will grow from Virginia's capital to Boston, "a city 600 miles long, a city that is staggering in its implications."

But he cautioned that a megalopolis, "unless planned with the concepts of order and beauty foremost in our minds, could become a monstrous slum, a gigantic ghostly seaboard of deserted factories, vandalized school buildings and decaying split levels with abandoned power mowers rusting in the front yards."

He said it was up to planning engineers to see that this did not happen — just as it was the responsibility of state highway departments to modernize inter-county and inter-state connecting roads to keep vehicular traffic moving comfortably and efficiently.

He said as far as Maryland's roads commission is concerned, "we face a great challenge to:

1. Build well and fit our plans into the economy of the municipalities and the counties.
2. Cooperate with other state particularly in the development of a highway system for megalopolis.
3. Spearhead the planning necessary to make megalopolis a good place to live."

Van Horn May Be Paroled Next Fall

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert Jett Van Horn may be paroled next fall from prison where he is serving a 10-year term for the death of his socially prominent wife.

Wallace Reidt, director of the Department of Parole and Probation, said Van Horn's record is being studied.

The 55-year-old Van Horn, a businessman and club member, was convicted of manslaughter in his wife's death. Her body was found June 2, 1957, off a Baltimore County road.

Under state parole regulations, he could be considered for parole after serving one-third of his term which technically began the day the body was discovered.

Va. Episcopal Diocese Integration Continues

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — The Episcopal Diocese of Virginia will continue the desegregated operation of its camps and conferences, a diocesan official said Thursday.

The Rev. James P. Lincoln, executive director of the Department of Christian Education, said the present program of integration operation will continue.

Wednesday, the Council of the Episcopal Diocese received a report from the racial study commission recommending both segregated and desegregated operation of the camps and conferences.

Reapportionment Legal Action Set

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (AP) — The Western Suburban Democratic Club of Montgomery County plans court action in an effort to bring about a reapportionment of seats in the General Assembly.

The move was voted Wednesday night after a 10-member committee of the club said it appears Maryland's heavily populated counties won't get more representation in the Legislature in any other way.

Phillip Thorson, chairman of the committee, said legal precedents for a reapportionment case are not too encouraging but the club feels it's worth a try. The club, he said, hopes to file the suit by spring.

A plan to give additional representation to Montgomery, Prince Georges, Anne Arundel and Baltimore counties will be presented when the General Assembly meets next month. Gov. Tawes has endorsed the proposal but there is strong opposition from rural areas.

Alleged Bandits Face S.C. Trial

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two men awaited arrival of South Carolina authorities Thursday for the return trip to Greenville S.C. where they have been charged with $21,150 bank holdup.

Jesse Lee Townes, 33, and Billy Jackson, 18, waived their right for a removal hearing Wednesday when they appeared before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart. The necessary papers authorizing their return to South Carolina were signed by District Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

Authorities didn't disclose when the men would be turned over to South Carolina officers to answer charges of participating in the holdup of the Pendleton Street branch of the South Carolina National Bank a week ago.

Townes, charged by the FBI as being the gunman who entered the bank, was arrested in a Baltimore hotel the night of Jan. 25. Young Jackson was captured in Catonsville, a Baltimore suburb, the same evening. Neither resisted.

Jackson's father, Robert W. Jackson, 40, of Baltimore, was arrested in Washington Saturday and was identified as a brother-in-law of Townes, who escaped from a South Carolina road gang in Dec. 20, 1952 while serving time for grand larceny and other charges.

All three defendants are Negroes.

Fence, Guard Towers For Patuxent Urged

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — The Howard County grand jury Thursday urged that a heavy wire fence and guard towers be erected around Patuxent Institution for Defective Delinquents at Jessup.

The jury also recommended that the law establishing it be amended to provide that an inmate that cannot be rehabilitated be transferred to a penal institution.

At present, Patuxent inmates service no specific term but are sent there for treatment for an indeterminate period. It also is officially classified as having "controlled security."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — When Frank Callen, director of Georgia's first boys' club, died in 1949, his widow was named executive director.

Now in her "satisfying sixties," Mrs. Callen reports that her first decade of widowhood had been dashed with a kind of eternal youth. She wishes other widows could be as fortunate.

The former school teacher's job is one of helping 700 Savannah boys with time on their hands. Many have backgrounds of poverty, overcrowded homes, parental indifference, family bickering and fighting.

Mrs. Callen's job — like that of her husband for 32 years — is to help the boys to short-circuit the seemingly built-in plan for failure.

Enthusiasm for the work comes naturally to Mrs. Callen. Her husband founded the club in 1917. For 21 years, he directed it — without compensation. He spent all the free time he had when his paying job, court probation officer, ended for the day.

Eventually, the club got enough outside support to be able to afford a paid director. Callen resigned his court job to become the Savannah Boys' club's first full-time executive director.

Irma Callen, his wife, continued as the club's number one volunteer. When she took over her late husband's job, she had a few butterflies inside. What kept her going was a philosophy she and her husband worked out a long time ago about boys who could become "spoils of society."

"In this work," she said, "we learn that there are no bad boys, just boys with bad breaks; no problem boys, just boys with problems."

"What's a little dirt and rags on the outside if there is a clean little soul on the inside. It is our job to clean him up and let his little soul shine through."

At the New York headquarters office of the Boys Clubs of America, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, the pages of Mrs. Callen's report of her first decade of work draw admiration.

When she took over, the club quarters were held together with "bailing wire." Under her direction, funds were gathered for a new building. Soon, the club will move to its new $75,000 club house.

Success in any work is a joint venture, as Mrs. Callen sees it. "Whatever success I have had is due to the great help given me and the confidence in my ability to carry on in my husband's footsteps," she said.

She is particularly grateful for the trust that flowed to Savannah from New York and national executives of the Boys' Clubs of America.

"A woman doing a man's work needed such trust," she said. She also credits the club's alumni — including several captains in the Army medical corps, the pastor of the oldest Baptist church in the United States, the ad manager of a New York newspaper, police officers, lawyers, businessmen.

The achievements: 700 a year, each a boy who stays out of trouble and uses his free time constructively. Other achievements include: city championship in basketball for the past nine years; victory in the city championship competition in both little and pony leagues for four years; victory seven years in a row in the invitational basketball tournament sponsored by the club.

The tournament includes eight high schools in southeast Georgia whose coaches are former members of the club. For her work, Mrs. Callen was awarded the BCA bronze medal with two silver stars. The club, upon her husband's death, was on the outside if there is a clean named the Frank Callen Boys' little soul on the inside. It is our job to clean him up and let his little soul shine through."

Plunges Into River

NEW YORK (UPI)—A police patrol car chasing a speeder swerved out of control Wednesday and plunged into the East River.

Two patrolmen, John Hirdt and Walter McDonald, extricated themselves from the sinking car. McDonald fired six shots from his revolver to summon help.

A passing tug picked up the two policemen, who were hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

NEW YORK (AP) — The individual trader doesn't seem worried about the stock market slump, a sampling of opinion indicated Wednesday.

A cross-section of tape-watchers interviewed as stock quotations flashed across a screen in a New York brokerage office, generally predicted that stocks would resume their climb.

Some felt that the reaction of the market was a necessary adjustment.

"I don't think it's going much lower," said E. A. Saacke, a retired Manhattan real estate man who has been in the market 30 years.

"You will notice that it has been going down on fairly light volume. I think it's a temporary correction in a bull market. It should drift around slowly and gradually go higher."

Another market veteran — retired from the wholesale shoe business — who didn't want to be quoted by name, said:

"It's not going to be a runaway market. I can't see any panicky condition."

An international attorney, Joseph Henry Armein, who divides his time between Switzerland and the United States, blamed the decline on tight money, the danger of inflation and uncertainties of an election year.

However, he said he looks for a very strong comeback in the market beginning at the end of February or in March.

Clifford A. Rausch of Hampton Bays, L.I., who rents cabins, boats and motors, said he feels the setback resulted partly because of the high ratio of stock prices to earnings and that buyers are waiting to see companies' annual reports to check earnings.

"I feel there will be a move up again in February, a tax selloff in April and then the market will go up for the rest of the year," he said.

A retired German textile manufacturer, who preferred not to be identified by name, attributed the decline in part to a lessening of confidence since the start of the year.

"I think the market will come back in the course of the year," he said. "The steel industry will be in good shape, chemicals are promising and building should be good."

Queen's Midwife Ready

LONDON (UPI) — Midwife Sister Helen Rowe was quoted by the Daily Sketch Thursday as saying that Queen Elizabeth "does not mind whether her new baby is a boy or girl." Sister Rowe, who awaited a royal summons to come to Buckingham Palace to assist with the birth of the Queen's third child, said the Queen told her this in a letter a few weeks ago. The birth is expected shortly.

Dependents And Income Tax Exemptions

(This, the third of five dispatches on how to pay your federal income tax, tells about the exemptions you can take to lower your taxable income.)

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — You must report your total income on your Federal tax return. But you are not taxed on all of it.

Under the law you can subtract big chunks of income from your earnings before you settle on your "taxable income."

For most taxpayers these chunks are either exemptions or deductions. An exemption is usually an allowance for your dependents, including yourself. We'll discuss exemptions in this article. In the next one, we'll take up deductions.

For each exemption that you are entitled to claim, your income is reduced by $600 for tax purposes. Every taxpayer gets an exemption for himself—automatically. That's why a single person with no dependents pays no income tax if his earnings for the year are $600 or less.

No Double Claims

A married person gets one exemption for himself and one for his wife—unless she is listed as a dependent on someone else's return, such as a parent's, or unless she has filed a separate return of her own claiming herself as an exemption.

The rule is that a person can be a full dependent of only one taxpayer. This means that when a couple file separate individual returns, each must list himself and neither can claim the other. Both can be listed in a joint husband-wife return even if the wife (or husband) had no income in 1959.

Two special types of exemptions are for old age and blindness. If you were 65 or older before the end of the year, you get an extra $600 exemption. If you were blind on or before the last day of the year, you may take an extra $600 exemption regardless of your age. If you qualify on both counts, you may take two extra exemptions.

Suppose you turned 65 last year (or on Jan. 1, 1960) and your wife did too. If you file a joint return you may take four deductions—the one apiece everyone is entitled to and one each on account of your age. That means the first $2,400 of income reported is not taxable. If you and your wife file separate returns you take two exemptions each.

You may take blindness and old age exemptions for a wife or husband who died last year.

But these special types of exemptions may not be claimed in any circumstances for a dependent other than a spouse. A parent, child or other dependent counts as only one exemption for you regardless of age or blindness.

Who Are Dependents

To claim someone as a dependent, your relationship must meet these five tests:

1. You must have furnished more than half of his or her support in the past year.
2. The dependent's gross income must have been less than $600 for the year, unless the dependent is your child under 19 or a full-time student. (Details on this exception below.)
3. The dependent must be closely related to you, or, if not, must be a member of your household who is living in your home.
4. The dependent must be a citizen of the United States. If he is not, he must be a resident of this country, Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone.
5. The dependent must not make a joint return with his or her husband or wife.

Parent Provision

Here is the special exception the government makes for your children. A son or daughter who earns $600 or more may still be claimed as a dependent by a parent who provided more than half the youngster's support:

- If the youngsters were under 19 at the end of the year.
- Or if he or she was a full-time student, regardless of age.

To be legally a full-time student, a person must have engaged in full-time study at a recognized school for at least five months of the year, or have been enrolled in one of several full-time on-the-farm training programs.

Remember: even if your child qualifies under one of these special rules you cannot claim him as a dependent unless you provided more than half his support. Regardless of whether you claim him as a dependent, a child who earned $600 or more must file an income tax return of his own. He may claim his own personal exemption without affecting your right to claim him as a dependent.

If the child earned less than $600 and taxes were withheld—this applies to adults, too—he is entitled to get the taxes back. To do so, he must file a return.

Office Worker Over 45 Fast, More Efficient

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average office worker over 45 is just as efficient as younger white-collar workers, a Labor Department study indicated Wednesday.

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said experts compared the work produced by office employees in 21 private companies and five government agencies.

The results showed that average productivity of workers past 45 equals that of employees from 25 to 45 and is greater than that of workers under 25.

"Our studies prove that older workers have lower rates of absenteeism and turnover, are more consistent in their performance and frequently produce at a faster rate than younger workers," Mitchell said.

"This indicates — that employers are passing up some excellent workers with valuable experience if they place an arbitrary age limit on hiring."

More Millionaires

LONDON (UPI) — Millionaires are on the upsurge in Great Britain. Four years ago 38 were reported. The latest tax report put the present figure at 54. By American standards there are doubtless many more. British reckon a millionaire as anyone who is worth a million pounds, which is $2,900,000.

City Police Investigating Number Of Larceny Cases

City Police are investigating an attempted entry of the office of a local junk yard Wednesday night and a number of larceny cases.

At least three attempts were made to enter the office of a River Avenue junk yard, according to a report by Officer Oliver L. Cook, who reported that the investigation was begun after he discovered a window of the office had been broken.

Unable to gain entry through the window, the culprit endeavored to gain access to the office in at least two other places, Officer Cook said. All attempts were unsuccessful, a check of the premises disclosed.

Miller Hardy informed police that an imported transistor radio had been stolen from his home, 722 Maryland Avenue. Value of the radio was placed at approximately $40, Hardy said, adding that he was unable to explain how the thief had entered his home.

Police have also been informed of the theft of three $1 bills from a March of Dimes container at a Virginia Avenue confectionery.

John Veach, 227 Wallace Street, informed police that two wrist watches and a ring had been stolen from his home some time over the weekend. A possible suspect was identified and a detainer issued for the person, who is believed to be in Baltimore. The items were valued at approximately $100.

Another resident of that neighborhood has reported the theft of $25 in cash, and police are of the opinion that the same person is responsible for both larcenies.

Birds feed their young in various ways, the National Geographic Magazine says. Most small birds carry insects or fruit in their bills, and pop the food into outstretched mouths. Others swallow the food and later cough it up. Hummingbirds employ their tubular tongues to inject the youngsters with nectar. Cormorants and pelicans open their mouths and let the babies help themselves.

According to reports, Mullooly had gone to a barn located about 100 yards from his home to do

By this time, Mullooly heard the fire and screams of his sister and after making certain pieces of equipment and about she was safe, ran about a quarter of a mile to a neighbor to telephone in an alarm. Firemen said the elderly couple lost all of their possessions except for the clothing they were wearing at the time.

Exports Drop

However, the bureau said exports totaled an "unusually high" $1,674,500,000 during December. It was the highest monthly export total reported since Nov. 1957 and was about 13 per cent more than the Nov. 1959 total.

J. G. Thomas Re-elected By Textile Union

Top officers of Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America were re-elected in balloting conducted since Monday and concluding Wednesday after the 11 p. m. shift change at the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

John G. (Jack) Thomas, incumbent president, was returned to office for his fourth term, defeating Earl L. Snyder, a former president, and William J. Atkinson.

Also elected were James Stewart, incumbent vice president, who had also served one other term several years ago; Charles F. Davis, incumbent secretary-treasurer, to his sixth term; and Francis (Pi) Harvey, incumbent Warden, to his 12th term.

Stewart defeated Melvin (Brassie) Sloan while Harvey won over Richard Jones and Carroll Silvious.

There were 13 candidates for Executive Board from which six were elected. Successful were Stanley Morgan, Floyd Grady, Robert Blair and James Filsinger, all incumbents; and Mrs. Lillian Burch and Carl (Monk) Ryan. Ryan is a former vice president.

There were eight candidates for the Board of Trustees and five were elected. They are Homer Schade, James McGann, incumbent, Robert Jones, incumbent; William Donahue and Earl Walker, incumbent.

No vote totals were available but those elected for Executive Board and Trustees are listed in order of finish.

Phil Skelley, chairman of the Election Committee, said 1,550 members of the 2,300 eligible cast ballots in the election.

No run-off vote will be necessary for any position in the giant union, Skelley said, adding that ballots were counted Wednesday and yesterday in an election room established at the Algonquin Hotel.

Other members of the Election Committee are O. J. Hutson, Leroy Hare, Edward Crowe and Andrew Jones.

Great Britain did not give up some of its territorial claims in Michigan until 1796, 13 years after the close of the Revolutionary war.

David E. Kirk Again Heads County Heart Drive

David E. Kirk of 110 LeFevre Road, has accepted appointment as county chairman for the 1960 Heart Fund campaign during February, according to George R. Hughes Jr., who again will serve as general chairman of the drive.

This will mark the second successive year that Kirk has accepted this position in the Heart Fund drive for contributions.

A former resident of Barton, Kirk has lived in Cumberland the past three and one half years. He is married to the former Miss Joyce M. Dick.

The county Heart Fund campaign chairman is an assessor with the Allegany County Assessing Department and is active in volunteer firemen's activities. He is secretary of the Bowling Green Fire Company and a former vice president and secretary of the Barton Hose Company.

Kirk served a term as president of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association and is liaison officer for the county firemen's radio network.

He has served three terms on the executive board of the State Firemen's Association. He has assisted in fund-raising drives in Barton.

In accepting the chairmanship, Kirk urged that everyone join in the fight against heart disease and to strengthen the lives of many young persons who are affected by it.

Volunteers in the drive are requested to call the county chairman at PA 2-1888 or the Heart Association office at PA 4-4011.

GOP Women To Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Plans were announced Thursday for an eighth annual Republican Women's Conference April 2-5 aimed at training GOP womanpower to "provide the backbone" of an all-out 1960 election victory drive.

Mrs. Clare B. Williams, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee in charge of women's activities, said 3,000 women from every part of the United States are expected to attend the conference.

$20,000 Damage Suit Removed To Court Here

A $20,000 damage suit was removed from Garrett County Circuit Court to Allegany County today which concerns burns suffered by a Cumberland man who rented a Deep Creek Lake cottage for a day last spring.

Garnet D. Davis, 145 Bedford Street, filed the suit against the owner of the cabin, William Bauer, McHenry, through his attorney, John M. Robb.

According to the declaration, Davis poured a liquid from a bottle marked "outboard motor oil" onto logs as a fire starter.

Instead of oil, the plaintiff charges, it was a highly explosive liquid and when it was poured into the fireplace it was ignited by a hidden spark in the ashes.

Davis declared that the explosion caught his clothing on fire, and said he suffered severe burns.

He sued for loss of wages, medical expenses and permanent and painful scarring, due to the burns.

The suit claims that the defendant owed a duty to the plaintiff and should have removed the explosive material, and it was the right of the plaintiff to receive the premises clear and free from any artificial, latent defects.

Davis asked that the hearing be removed from Garrett County.

Judge Reverses Decision In Motor Case

The state lost its appeal in one case heard in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday and won only a pyrrhic victory in another. Criminal appeals from various trial magistrates courts were heard by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Enoch Van Meter, of near Flintstone, was found not guilty of a charge of operating a vehicle while having his driver's license revoked.

He had been found not guilty at a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court, Oldtown, and the state appealed the decision.

H. M. Mentzer, of here, and Phillips the judge found him guilty, but suspended the sentence.

It was pointed out that unbeknownst to the truck weighing crew, the rig had dump-type tags which were not displayed that would have allowed the extra weight.

The straight-type tags displayed did not authorize the weight being carried in the vehicle at the time it was checked on August 6. Phillips was represented by Estel C. Kelley.

Petitions Circulated For Hospital Aid

Petitions are being circulated in the Frostburg area and at the Allegany County Circuit Court urging the state of Maryland to continue direct financial aid to Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Steps have been made to set up a corporation to take over the hospital management. A bill passed in the General Assembly last year provides that direct financial aid will be ended on June 30.

At that time, either a private corporation or the county must take over the operation of the hospital.

Telephone Company Approves Expenditures

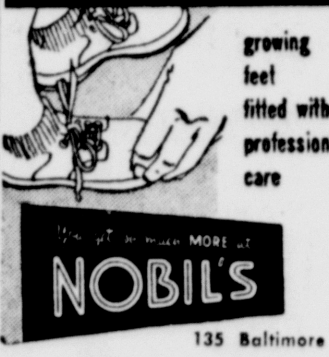

Directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company have approved expenditures amounting to nearly $58,000,000 during the last 12 months for improvements and expansion of service.

Officials of the Cumberland office said, however, that most of the expenditures are for projects in the Baltimore, Aberdeen and Severna Park areas. Of these more than half the January appropriation, $1,765,000, was for equipment to convert the Madison area from manual to dial operation this year.

Increased Patrols

TAIPEI (UPI)—Nationalist China Wednesday ordered increased military patrols in the Formosa Straits during the Chinese New Year season despite Peiping's announcement of a holiday ceasefire. Nationalist troops on the Quemoy and Matsu offshore islands were ordered to remain vigilant against the possibility of a Red attack during the major Chinese festival season of the year.

First Man On Moon To Have Detailed Maps

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Yerkes, Mount Wilson, Palomar, first man on the moon will have better maps to guide his lunar travels than are available for many parts of the earth. His maps also will beat anything Christopher Columbus had when he wandered off to discover a new world. These points were made by the U.S. Army Map Service Wednesday. It's whipping up a map of the moon, a mere 239,543 miles away. Yet the map will be so detailed that each inch will represent 79 moon miles. Hundreds of photographs are being assembled from the Lick, the moon because (A) most authorities doubt that it has any natives, and (B) even if it does, who knows the language?

Take another illustration. In the old days of flying, a pilot who was lost followed a railroad track and dipped down low enough to read the sign on the next station. A lack of railroads to follow will prove a great handicap to the first man on the moon.

These worries were taken to the headquarters of the Army Engineers. A fellow there conceded this might be quite a problem. But he said he hopes that by the time the first man moonshot comes off, it will be possible not only to hit the moon but a pre-selected spot on it.

One warning: The man on the moon will have to land on its bright side. The dark side, which we never see, can't be mapped yet, although satellites such as the one the Soviet Union put up may remedy this. Pictures can be relayed back to show how the other side looks.

The announcement came from Col. Frederick O. Diercks, commanding officer of the Map Service.

"Modern technological developments indicate that man will in the not too distant future set foot on the moon," Diercks said in rich, topographic prose.

"The achievement of this objective is no longer considered an idle vision. Construction of an accurate topographic map of the moon is an essential prerequisite to man's exploration and occupancy of the moon's surface."

MISSIONARY WORK AGAINST BUREAUCRACY—The Rev. James Pratt, 64, Austrey, England, vicar, paints number of the vicarage on the gate to comply with rural council's demand that all houses bear numbers. The Rev. Pratt, complies—in Chinese—in protest against the tone in which the letter was written and the implied threat of a fine. Chinese lettering reads "75." "The law says my house has to be numbered," said the vicar who was once a missionary in China, "but it doesn't say I've got to do it in English." (AP Photofax)

Ex-AF Officer Defects To Sea, Has No Regrets

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — A retired U. S. Air Force officer has no regrets for his defection to the sea.

"When I find a place I like I settle down for a while," said Carl Powell aboard his 34-foot yawl "Bella Kaze" as he dropped anchor in Saigon harbor after a 2,800-mile voyage from Japan.

Powell, 42, who forsook the wild blue yonder for the lure of a will take him south to Singapore, westward to Ceylon, across the Atlantic and into the Caribbean.

His companions are his Japanese wife, Masumi, a dog named "Mr. Butch" and occasional adventures and international hitchhikers they encounter in their leisurely wanderings. A rat they named "Mickey" who stowed away while in drydock in Hong Kong was lost at sea when the rodent scampered out on the boom sheet, a reckless action which Powell attributed to seasickness.

The Bella Kaze, flying the Stars and Stripes from her mizzen mast, has attracted attention in this famed river port.

But Powell, no publicity seeker, merely tucks away the numerous newspaper stories that have been written about him in his cluttered cabin. Later on they may be useful, especially with suspicious customs officials who don't speak English and who might think the Bella Kaze is running guns.

Loathing in his cabin, Powell said the Bella Kaze had encountered most of the normal hazards of a long sea voyage. The worst was the tearing loose of a copper bottom plate while sailing off the Chinese coast. And in the South China Sea, a storm split his mizzen mast, forcing him into an obscure Vietnamese port for repairs by fishermen.

Hillary Outlines Plans For 'Yeti' Search

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sir Edmund Hillary, the man who conquered Mount Everest, Wednesday outlined plans to return to the Himalayas in search of the legendary Abominable Snowman.

But Hillary said he'll probably find just a big, shaggy bear. Hillary will lead a party of 14 mountaineers to Nepal this September. They will conduct high altitude survival tests and try to track the snowman or "yeti" — the elusive, manlike creature believed to haunt the high ranges of the Himalayas.

The nine-month expedition is being sponsored by the Chicago States occur in the afternoon.

EASTER SEAL BOY—Johnny Kemp, 10, Bismarck, N. D., keeps "I'll try" attitude despite being born without hands and feet. His accomplishments yesterday won him Easter Seal Child of the year honors from National Easter Seal Society. His father, J. B. Kemp, is a highway engineer. In March, Johnny will visit Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower on Easter Seal mission, one of many such appearances he will make on behalf of America's crippled youngsters. Here he shows agility with artificial hands to schoolmates Debra McDonald and Thomas Perius. (AP Photofax)

Little Leaguer 1960 Easter Seal Boy

By TIM HOGAN
BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI)—It's a thrill to watch John Kemp play baseball, but don't expect his name ever to appear on a major league roster. John, 10, has artificial arms and legs.

The little leaguer has been selected 1960 National Easter Seal Boy by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. He will travel around the nation this spring as an illustration of what can be done for the handicapped if the money and surgical skill as well as the spirit are there.

John was born at Waterloo, Iowa, with arms that end above the elbow and with only parts of his legs. One leg ends above the knee, the other just below.

But John not only can do most of the things expected of a 10-year-old, but can do many of them better than the average boy.

Won't Have Pity
Don't pity John because he won't have any of it.

"I know there are some things I can't do," John told a UPI reporter. "But I think of all the things I can do and I don't worry so much about the rest of it."

John pitches baseball, kicks a football, twirls a hula-hoop, and uses his mechanical "hands" to braid straw, fashion houses from popsicle sticks, and to carve horses from soap. His craftwork is superior to that of many of his friends in the local Cub scout pack.

He also peddles papers every morning, walks five blocks to mass on Sunday and does chores around the house.

Baseball Favorite Sport
Baseball is his favorite sport and he can tell you all about last year's standings and the latest player trades in the major leagues.

"I have fun playing ball even if I'm not real good at it," John said. "Just because you're not real good at something doesn't mean you can't have fun just the same."

John is not self-conscious about his handicap.

"It's something I can't pretend isn't there," he said. "I just have to show people that it doesn't make as much difference as they think it might."

John's teachers at St. Anne's Parochial School say he is a bright boy and a leader. He does not ask for and does not expect favors. If there is something he can't do he is not afraid to say so.

Wants To Be Doctor
Right now, John's ambition is to become a doctor. His teachers say he appears to have the aptitude for success in one of the sciences.

The boy's widowed father, John Bernard Kemp, and his two sisters are three big reasons why young John Daniel Kemp may one day get his medical degree. They have never tried to treat John as anyone different. But at the same time they have tried to make sure that he isn't constantly faced with obstacles so big they might discourage him.

"It used to bother Johnny when other kids stared at him," Kemp said. "But we just told the boy to go over to them and show them how his hand clamps work. Pretty soon he would be the center of the group and none of the kids would think of staring at him."

Before settlers came to America, Indian bird lovers attracted martins to their teepees by attaching gourd nesting boxes to tent poles.

WU Acts To Sell
Its Ocean Cable

NEW YORK (UPI)—Western Union moved Thursday to sell its ocean cable system for $13,500,000 cash to Barnes Investing Corp. of Chicago.

It acted to comply with an order of the Federal Communications Commission that Western Union get out of the international telegraph business.

The sale is subject to FCC approval and Barnes is obligated under the contract to buy the stock of Anglo-American Telegraph Co., Ltd., and release Western Union from all obligations under its long term lease of Anglo-American's five trans-Atlantic cables. Western Union is obligated under the existing lease to pay $735,000 a year rent on the cables until the year 2010.

One of the highest temperatures in the United States was 134 degrees Fahrenheit for July 10, 1913.

Traveler Reports More Soviet-China Border Precautions

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Canadian the International Geophysical Year and "was far from enthusiastic over all I saw in them."

He said the cities he saw in China were clean, and there was an enormous amount of construction going on. Trains also were clean and for the most part ran on time, he said.

"In all parts of the country new buildings, factories, canals, dams, and electric power lines were being built with great speed and activity," Wilson said. "This was being done by enormous numbers of people by primitive methods."

He said the places he visited were selected by him and "I believe that what I saw was quite genuine and not staged."

He said that "in spite of much talk of commune barracks, a moment's reflection will lead anyone to realize that most people still live in the old houses, because new housing for 650 million people could not possibly be built in the two years since the idea of communes was hatched."

He said that to judge the communes fairly "one must remember what the Chinese had before."

"And, to be honest," he said, "if one makes the important exception of the freedom of choice to join or to leave, the Chinese commune and the highly praised Israeli kibbutz have been designed along similar lines for similar reasons."

Wilson said Chinese hatred of the West had "an element of trumped up electioneering artificiality about it." He said he believed the average Chinese coolie "has had such a poor time in life" that he actually was little concerned with more than day-to-day living.

"Our concern for freedom, justice, democracy and religion are not yet his standards," he said. "He wants first assurance that he will not starve to death, that he will not be drowned in floods and that there is some hope for him to improve his lot or at least that of his children. Rightly or wrongly the Communists have convinced many people that they can offer these things."

Newest Nuclear Club Member?

Latest dispatches from Paris indicate that France may explode its first atomic weapon in the Sahara desert any day now. That would mean that difficulties encountered last autumn—particularly in the production of plutonium, the raw material for the bomb—have been conquered much sooner than originally was thought possible. Earlier indications were that tests could not be expected before spring at the optimum.

The French weapon is to be an atomic, not a hydrogen, bomb, probably of the Hiroshima vintage. It will not make France a nuclear power in the sense that the United States or Soviet Russia are, or even that Great Britain is. Jacques Soustelle, President de Gaulle's Minister for Atomic Power, on November 3 described the weapon in preparation as "neither apocalyptic nor ridiculous." And of course it would be difficult and enormously costly for France to develop the capacity to deliver the bomb possessed by the other members of the "nuclear club."

Nevertheless, the French tests could be extremely embarrassing for the West. Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has repeatedly declared that the USSR will not resume nuclear testing so long as the Western powers refrain. During United Nations debate on the Sahara tests last November, the Russian delegate gave a pointed reminder that the Soviet suspension could be depended upon only so long as no member of the Western alliance conducted tests.

In going ahead with its demonstrations, France is ignoring two resolutions adopted at the last session of the UN General Assembly. But President de Gaulle has set forth that France would join in any UN agreement outlawing nuclear arms, the while saying his government would not adhere to a U.S.-British-Soviet ban.

Ladies' Handbags

Fidel Castro may believe that the great economist, Joe Louis, will solve the problem of his receding economy, but he has, apparently, not figured on the ladies. Joe Louis is trying to encourage tourism from the United States to Cuba. For some reason, the former fighter believes that American Negroes will populate the new empty Havana hotels and Castro has been encouraged to believe that Joe can do it, bringing American dollars into the Cuban economy.

But now along comes the National Authority for the Ladies' Handbag Industry and demands that the government terminate the 20 per cent "preferential treatment afforded Cuba on imports of reptile handbags."

Few of us knew that Cuba was getting a subsidy on reptile handbags from the American taxpayer. We knew that Cuba was getting a subsidy of two cents a pound on sugar but not on reptiles. Why do women need reptile handbags, anyhow?

The queer thing about this reptile business is that it goes back to 1902 and cannot be blamed on the Franklin Roosevelt Administration. Heretofore, everything evil has been blamed on F.D.R. As a matter of fact, this must have been done by Mark Hanna and Theodore Roosevelt, but what interest could they have had in Cuban reptiles? Under the 1902 Commercial Convention, Cuba received a minimum 20 per cent advantage on all Cuban products sold to the United States which were not on the free list. It was a reciprocal arrangement. This was confirmed by the 1934 bilateral trade agreement for which Cordell Hull was responsible, and has been included in the GATT Agreements.

Let us use an ugly word, boycott. Cuba can be hit by the United States in the economic solar plexus because there is no better market for reptile handbags than this country. The ten best dressed women do not go about sporting reptile handbags. Let those women who need handbags use cowhide or goat-skin or some other American-style leather. As a matter of fact, some of the reptile handbags look repulsive.

Castro is trying another trick. The Handbag Authority provides this letter:

"In reply to your letter of December 23, relative to our indebtedness, please be advised that we have applied to the National Bank of Cuba to authorize payment some time ago. There is nothing that we or anyone can do until said authorization is given to our bank at which time a check will be issued covering the account.

"In retrospect, we have been doing business with this and many handbag concerns over the last fifteen years and are accustomed to pay our bills promptly. Nevertheless all we can do at this time is await the green light from the higher authorities."

In other words, when Cuban firms import goods, Castro prevents them from paying for the imports. The answer to that is boycott. We do not need to do business with Cuba at all, any kind of business. There is no reason why we should use Cuban sugar, Cuban tobacco, Cuban reptile handbags or anything else that is Cuban. If Castro can sell the entire product of Cuba to Soviet Russia, let him do so. If that is his solution to his problem, let him try it.

The United States needs to take a stand against every speck of a country spitting in our face. It should have been done when Vice President Nixon took his spectacular trip to Latin America and was abused as no American representative to any foreign area has ever been abused before in our history. We should then have taught those countries that this is a proud nation and requires orderly and dignified conduct on the part of its neighbors. They may have grievances against us, but such grievances must be handled by diplomatic means not by accelerated mass demonstrations.

When countries do not know how to behave decently, they should be taught. Castro's Cuba has become an international nuisance and as it affects the United States more than any other country, the United States should act and the first act should be a boycott of all Cuban goods brought into the United States. Already, the tourist traffic has practically stopped and Joe Louis will not revive it. Next in line is sugar. Then tobacco. Then everything, including these reptile handbags. Let Castro solve that problem, if he can.

Playing Russian Roulette With Fishy Estimates

(The following article is the fourth in a series of six.)

WASHINGTON

The American intelligence estimate prepared at the time of the first Sputnik gave the Soviets about 500 intercontinental missiles by the end of this year. If these first estimates happened to be correct, the Kremlin may already have enough ICBMs to "wipe out" our nuclear deterrent.

During 1958, however, the first estimates were downgraded. New and lower estimates were conveniently revealed by former Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy, during his presentation of the business-as-usual 1959 defense budget. This second set of estimates gave the Kremlin 500 ICBMs by the end of 1961. If the revised estimates happened to be correct, the Kremlin should be in a position to win the world about twelve months from now.

During 1959, however, the revised estimates were revised yet again. The new and still lower estimates were conveniently revealed by Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates, during his presentation of the business-as-usual 1960 defense budget. If the twice-downgraded estimates happen to be correct, we may perhaps bridge the missile gap without any final catastrophe — provided the Pentagon's highly optimistic schedules for the Minute Man missile and other weapons of the future also happen to be correct.

On the face of it, there is something very fishy about these repeated, strikingly convenient downgradings of intelligence estimates. How can anyone be so sure that Nikita S. Khrushchev was lying, in late 1958, when he stated that Soviet ICBMs were already "in serial production"? How prove that he was being deliberately misleading, more recently, when he seemed to say that a single Soviet factory had turned out 250 ICBMs last year?

If he was telling the truth, Khrushchev must now have at least 150 operational ICBMs. The highest American authority, the Strategic Air Commander, Gen. Thomas Power, has publicly said 150 ICBMs could "virtually wipe out" our nuclear deterrent. And the answer to the questions posed above is, quite simply, that no one in America can possibly be sure Khrushchev was not telling the truth, despite our downgraded estimates.

The proof of that statement lies not merely in the disturbing record of the estimates and the peculiar machinery that produces them, both of which have already been described in this series. In the evidence itself lies the best proof that the estimates are no more absolutely reliable than their name implies.

The gaps in our evidence on the Soviet ICBM program are quite certainly very great. We do not know whether the Soviets have one, or two, or three, or more ICBM plants comparable to our own Atlas plant, which could turn out 150 ICBMs in ten months if ordered into three shift production. We do not know whether crews have been diverted for ICBMs from the admittedly massive Soviet IRBM program. We do not know about launching pads, since even the doubly downgraded estimates suggested that the Soviet ICBMs are probably rail-mobile.

Such are the vast areas of ignorance, which unchallengeable authorities assert are concealed behind the national estimates. There are hints and indications, of course, to garnish the gap. But there is in fact only one main area of certainty. Our missile-watching radars have told us that the Soviets were not running great numbers of ICBM tests — only about three per month until recently. We also have information about the Soviet testing facilities apparently confirming the information about the ICBM tests.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

BEST SELLER—He'll probably win no Academy Award for it but Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat, has unwittingly produced one of the best selling films ever made on Capitol Hill.

Following passage of the labor reform bill last September, Morse made a film for television accusing Senator John Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, of selling out labor in his effort to get Southern support for his Presidential aspirations.

The cast and setting were simple. Morse spoke extemporaneously with the picture of the Capitol as a backdrop. There was no love interest.

Originally, Morse made the 28-minute film for showing over stations in Oregon to explain his vote against the measure. In it Morse calls Kennedy the "man most responsible" for what he called "one of the most anti-labor bills" in American history.

Morse had seven prints made at first, with the Capitol recording room retaining the master film. Orders for prints began to pour into Morse's office, mostly from unions. A price of $40 per print was set to cover film, processing costs and mailing charges. At least 60 of the prints have been ordered so far, with the end not in sight in view of Kennedy's announced candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Morse's office won't give the latest totals, but it was learned that about 10 copies were ordered by Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters' union and five more by the Machinists' union. The original master film became so frayed from use that Morse had to go before the cameras to make a second version.

Expectant Mother Needs Common-Sense Diet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is no substitute for common sense. Most pregnant women can continue on their customary diet, provided it is balanced. A little more proteins and less starch will help, along with milk for calcium.

But not much will happen if a perfect diet is not followed. The last two major wars provided many examples of dietary deficiency. The deprivation of the POW is well known and in some camp, one out of three died. But the health of most mothers in starved, war torn countries was reasonably well maintained, despite inadequate meals.

There was no relationship between their starvation diets and nausea, skin resistance, weakness, susceptibility to infection, miscarriages, or toxemia. There was a slight increase in premature labor and anemia and fewer women were able to breast feed their youngsters.

War conditions had no effect on the baby's weight except in areas where mothers ate fewer than 1,500 calories daily over a long period. This is in contrast to the 2,500 to 3,000 calories most adults consume daily.

These findings are in contrast to comparable studies done in this country. Improvement of the nutritional status of a group of women resulted in a reduction of the incidence of miscarriages, toxemia, premature delivery, and other abnormalities. In all probability, the original dietary intake of these women had been at a higher level than that in war torn countries. The American women ended with an optimum diet — the ultimate in nutrition.

Much depends upon the nutritional status prior to pregnancy. Most American women need not

Benson Must Choose Between Big Meat Lobby And Farmer Friends

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today is the day when Ezra Taft Benson will finally decide whether to line up on the side of housewives and farmers or on the side of the big meat-packing lobby in regard to the grading of lamb and mutton.

A closed-door meeting has been called in the Agriculture Department at which Secretary Benson will weigh the evidence pro and con meat grading. Meat lobbyist Aled Davies, close friend of Benson's, will not be present. But from a distance, he will be watching over Benson's shoulder.

Davies, who is vice president of the American Meat Institute, is given credit for persuading the Secretary of Agriculture to abandon government grading of lamb and mutton even though it costs the government nothing and is an important protection to housewives and independent meat-packers. (The packers pay for the grading.) Davies is close to Benson, was one of the family guests invited to the musicale at Anderson House, headquarters of the Society of The Cincinnati, when Benson's daughter, Beverly, made her musical debut.

In front of Benson during today's closed session, however, will be a voluminous stack of testimony from all sorts of people taken before the House Agriculture Committee, urging that government grading of lamb and mutton be continued. The testimony is from such people as Miss Sally Butler of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Fred Schneider of the American reasons. Insisting on this yardstick, the Pentagon has also insisted that the Soviets cannot be engaged in a "crash program" of ICBM output.

The words, "crash program," are doubly revealing. They show first the deforming effect of budgetary pressures. A mere ten months of capacity output by our own Atlas plant — the Kremlin requirement as stated by Gen. Power — could not be called a "crash program" by anyone who had not lost his grip on reality.

Second, these words, "crash program," also imply a shocking fact that Secretary Gates has now publicly admitted. They show that our estimates are no longer calculations of Soviet "capabilities" — calculations of the utmost the Soviet can do, by a crash program for instance. They indicate that our estimates are now mere calculations of Soviet "intentions." Despite Secretary Gates's subsequent attempts to fuff the whole thing over, his original testimony on this point was crystal clear:

"Figures of Soviet ICBM output that have been testified to in years past . . . were based on Soviet capabilities. This present one is an intelligence estimate of what we believe (the Soviet) will probably do, not what (the Soviets are) capable of doing."

Pearl Harbor was the result, the last time the American government based its defense posture on what it believed a hostile power would probably do, and not on what the hostile power was capable of doing. If the estimates are wrong by no more than a hairsbreadth, something much worse than Pearl Harbor can now be the result.

In this matter, it is folly to blame the estimates, and above all the Central Intelligence Agency. The C. I. A. has never claimed to provide gospel instead of estimates. It has done its best with a bad, difficult business. But those who have pressed for downgraded estimates, and have then used mere estimates as gospel, can certainly be blamed. These sponsors of our business-as-usual defense budgets, headed by the President, are playing a vast game of Russian roulette with the national future.

worry along this line, provided their normal diet is adequate. A little more calcium is required for bones and teeth, and iron for the blood. Less salt is desirable, especially during the latter half of pregnancy; avoid the salt shaker at the table. Keep down the calories. A weight gain during pregnancy of 15 to 20 pounds is ideal; any more is stored fat.

TOMORROW: F. D. R.'s birthday.

VITAMIN E
M. E. writes: We hear so much about the lack of vitamin E in the diet, wouldn't it be advisable to take it in an artificial form?

REPLY
Not routinely, as the daily diet provides more than enough for the average person.

STARCHY FOODS
A. M. D. writes: Would a no starch, no acid diet cure arthritis?

REPLY
No. Starch makes shirts stiff but it will not do the same to arthritic joints. Eat a normal diet unless your arthritis is of the gouty type.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

Steamship Purchasing Agents; Arnold Mayer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen; Charles Sullivan of the Division of Purchase and Property of New Jersey; Jim Hoge, representing the lamb producers of Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina; Irving Michelson of the Consumers Union, plus many others.

Entering Wedge
"Government grading is essential," said Harold G. Smith of the U. S. Wholesalers Association. "Grading gives us protection against fancy sounding grade names imposed by the packers."

Most important of all, however, was a statement by Benson's good friend, Charles B. Shuman, head of the Farm Bureau, who has supported the Secretary of Agriculture on some of his most unpopular policies, but not on this one.

"We are strongly opposed to the discontinuance of the grading of lamb and mutton carcasses that was announced to be effective Jan. 4," wrote Shuman. "We believe that discontinuing would be a step backward."

This testimony literally inundated Congress after Benson's order to stop lamb and mutton grading. Congress has now turned the testimony over to him. And the Secretary of Agriculture will have to decide today whether or not to reverse his own order and continue grading.

Note 1—Many consumer groups fear that the ending of lamb and mutton grading would be the entering wedge for cutting out the grading of beef and all other meat, as desired by the big packers.

Note 2—The House Agriculture Committee unanimously recommended that standards for mutton-lamb grading be continued but that standards be changed. Rep. Clem Miller of California argued that it was not necessary to put so much fat on lambs to qualify as "prime" and that consumers paid a higher price because of this extra fat. This change in standards will probably be made.

Courage Fays Off
You will find all sorts of private opinions among Senators regarding their unpredictable colleague, Wayne Morse, of Oregon.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Pontius Pilate, a bright man, once stood on the portico of his praetorium, and asked a question of a man standing under a crown of thorns. "What is truth?" he said. It is, of course, an enigma of rationalization. I would stand to inquire: "What is love?" Does anyone know?

It is an emotion that many people discuss but few can define. Webster's Unabridged Dictionary gives it 31 lines of type, but can't seem to get any closer than "A feeling of strong personal attachment induced by that which delights or commands admiration; ardent affection. . . ."

Roget, who was no fool in affairs of the heart, gives 25 synonyms for love, including such ones as "flame, gallantry and idolatry." Between the ages of 18 and 52, I have been in love three times — completely, hopelessly, irrevocably, and to my way of thinking, it is a sweetly sad emotion. It is a long whisper from lips which almost, but not quite, touch the ear.

I speak, of course, of love between a man and a woman. I do not refer to mother love, nor filial devotion, nor charity, which is an enormous love of its own, nor even of the love God has for man, which is the greatest, all-suffering love of all. I mean carnal love.

It is a selfish and selfless emotion, a grasping, demanding thing; a daily surrender. It is never idolatry, unless the giver is immature, because the object of love is never an idol, although always an ideal. Love, like laughter, is too intense to be long sustained. It lives and dies by turns, like a slow pulse.

It intrudes on a daily task suddenly and, when it does, it takes sole possession of the mind. It robs the will and cancels courage in the brave and gives it to cowards in love. I have seen it unman a brute and put roses into the cheeks of a crippled girl.

When it is born, it supplants parents, replaces friends, and dominates the world. When it dies, it goes gracefully, sniveling, whining, inditing, shrouded in jealousy and sometimes hate. When it is in flower, it can survive death and is often more beautiful in retrospect than it ever was in life. When one of the parties departs, the other is left in a permanent sunset.

Still, I do not know what it is. I knew it when it came to me

But there's one thing they all agree on: Morse is not afraid.

According to a recent poll by a Republican newspaper in Oregon his courage pays off. For Morse rates far higher than any other presidential candidate.

The Eugene, Ore., Statesman which has opposed Morse at almost every turn, has taken a poll showing the maverick Senator from Oregon rates 50.37 among Oregon's Democrat voters as against 21.8 for Kennedy and 18.05 for Stevenson. Other Democratic candidates for president trailed behind.

Among Republican voters in Oregon Morse also stands high, though not as high as with the Democrats. Taking the combined opinion of both Democrats and Republicans, Morse still tops the field with an average of 38.31, Kennedy ranking second with 25.12, and Stevenson next with 19.57.

Politico-Go-Round

Friends of Sen. Jack Kennedy say his family has set aside a big campaign chest for the primary campaign in California. In a private lunch with Gov. Pat Brown, however, Kennedy indicated he hadn't made up his mind whether to enter California for a showdown with his fellow-Catholic Brown. Brown has been a popular and efficient governor and it would be a tough race . . . Sen. Steve Young of Ohio has made a lot of mileage out of the American Legion proposal to expel him because he spoke before the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee in New York. All sorts of newspapers have supported the peppery Senator from Ohio for calling the Legionnaires "you self-appointed censors and self-appointed super duper America-Firsters . . . You professional veterans who proclaim your vainglorious chauvinism. I repudiate your resolution, Buster, and your pompous, self-righteous holier-than-thou title of Americanism chairman." (The Senator from Ohio vowed when he came to Washington to call the shots as he sees them). . . . The New York delegation to the Democratic convention will go to Los Angeles split wide open. Tammany boss Carmine De Sapio will be for Kennedy. Mrs. Roosevelt and the liberals will be opposed. (Copyright, 1960, By The Bell Syndicate)

but I could not identify it. I remember that I stood in cold rain with a $2 bouquet waiting for her and the water made the blossoms tremble. I remember reading the same letter over and over, looking for hidden meanings. I remember stopping in at a church and saying: "You've got to help me get her because I need her more than she needs me."

That too is love—remembering I've seen it in a lowering of eyes, in the proud-old-fashioned way an elderly man held his wife on a dance floor; I've seen it in the helpless wring of pale hands. I've turned away from it when it stood as a solitary tear on a lid and refused to fall.

It is an exalting emotion, one that can lift a young man with no prospects to the pinnacle of power; one that can make an attractive, healthy young lady want to die for a boy with pimples. It is not something that can be sought, searched for, engineered, planned, devised, bequeathed or governed. It comes unasked; it flies unbidden.

The deep ardor is the only emotion that demands incessant proof that it is alive. One must be prepared, not only to be aware that it is present, but to display it daily—on demand. It is the tenderest of feelings, but also the most violent. Ironically, its very delicacy thrives on bruises.

There are psychiatrists and analysts who can take it apart, kiss by kiss, and they can identify each of the parts, but they cannot tell you what it is when it is all together. It is togetherness, but it is much more than that. It is a melting of two essences into one, but that sounds like chemistry. True love is at its best when the problems are insurmountable. When trouble comes, love grows muscled.

Me, I'm a sentimentalist. A jaded sentimentalist who can, on a velvet night, watch a winking star for a long time. I can look at it scientifically or romantically, depending on the mood. A song like "Charmaine" can shatter me, derail a train of thought, and make me feel emotions long dormant. The little hairs along the forearm tighten and I am thrown into an indigo mood and I say to myself: "What is love? Come on, now. What is it, really?" . . .

Judge Defers Sentencing Pair

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday deferred sentencing two Slabtown youths after they pleaded guilty to burglary of two business establishments in the Narrows, the first of three counts in the criminal information upon which they were tried.

Albert LeRoy Bridges, 20, and Carl William Helmick, 17, were tried on the criminal information filed by State's Attorney James S. Getty, after they had waived their right to indictment by the grand jury and had requested an immediate trial. After their plea of guilty to the first count, the state dismissed the second and third counts, which charged grand larceny and receipt of stolen goods.

Judge Harris requested a report from James Lewis, parole and probation officer for Allegany and Garrett counties, before passing sentence. Police said the burglaries resulted in the theft of $117.50 from Diehl's Service Station and merchandise valued at $28.68 from Kline's Restaurant in the same building.

At yesterday's trial, Bridges was represented by James Sullivan, his court-appointed attorney, and Helmick by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

He suffered a compound fracture of the lower right leg and was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Bean was using a bosun's chair while painting some piping over the roof of the new power house when a rope gave way and he fell to the roof.

Bean, who resides at 7 East Frazier Street, Cumberland, is employed by a firm doing subcontract work for Tidewater-Hazelwood in the expansion work at the Luke Mill.

Senator Bean Is Sponsor Of Food Stamp Bill

Labor Approved Plan Presented

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy) introduced a so-called food stamp bill Thursday designed to help balance the diet of needy West Virginians.

A second labor-sponsored bill, it calls for issuance of coupons to families subsisting solely on surplus food handouts and would cost the state between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 annually.

These coupons would be used like money at stores by the recipients to obtain foods such as meats, not now included on the surplus commodity list. They later would be redeemed by the state.

No specification was made in the bill as to what could be "bought" with the coupons. This would be left up to the Department of Public Assistance which also would handle the redemption of the coupons.

County DPA officials would screen applicants and the measure requires that each case be reviewed every six months because only those with no other source of aid would be eligible.

The surplus food list now contains only six items, ranging from dried milk to lard.

Ski Club Opens Sixth Winter Carnival Today

Slopes Near Davis Scene Of Events

DAVIS, W. Va. — The mildest winter in years is no obstacle to plans of the Ski Club of Washington, D.C. for its sixth annual Winter Carnival this weekend at the group's ski slopes near Davis.

Hundreds of ski enthusiasts from the nation's capital and neighboring communities in Maryland and Virginia will assemble today, tomorrow and Sunday to race, if there is snow, and to celebrate the traditional crowning of the Carnival Queen at a dinner and Sno-Ball in the lodge at nearby Blackwater Falls.

Activities will commence this afternoon with a cross-country ski race, the club's first venture in this type of winter sport. The three-mile course will challenge the contestants in all varieties of ski techniques and afford spectators a chance to observe an increasingly popular form of competition.

Throughout Saturday, Slalom races will be held on the Ski Club's slope at Cabin Mountain and at Weiss Knob. The events are sanctioned by the U.S. Eastern Amateur Ski Association and are geared to all degrees of ski proficiency. Snow bunnies, intermediates, and experts will run the serpentine courses in an effort to establish the fastest time.

At the close of day, members and guests will meet informally for a gluhwein party and talk-fest beside the fireside at the lodge, and later will hold their buffet dinner and dance.

At 10 p.m. Gov. Underwood of West Virginia or his representative, Dr. Warden Lane, director of conservation for the state, and other notables will crown Marilyn Buist of Washington as "Queen of the Winter Carnival" during the Sno-Ball. Assisting Miss Buist in her royal duties will be Princesses Maryse Deleux and "Trudy" Lemke of Washington.

Betty Lou Kendall of Fairfax, Va., and Rita Sue Showalter of Beltsville, Md.

Sunday morning, early risers will witness a simple, impressive ceremony, "The Blessing of the Skis" at St. Veronica's Catholic Church in Davis.

Later in the day, interest will once more center on Cabin Mountain and Weiss Knob with the hilarious costume-obstacle race. This race, also a tradition with the Club, will never be an Olympic event but always a favorite for the racers and watchers.

Giant Slaloms, also sanctioned by USEASA, and open to Juniors, Intermediate and Expert men and women, will occupy the balance of the Sunday morning and afternoon program.

In charge of the Carnival is John Katsu, of Avondale, Md. Race and slope officials for the carnival weekend are Bob Ruan, club president, of Vienna, Va.; Rick Marshall, Gorman Young, and Earl Mosburg of Washington, E. P. Anderson, Warren Golbertson, and Frank Louckes of Arlington, Va., and their assistants.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Senate Wednesday adopted a resolution calling for a legislative interim committee study of West Virginia's adoption laws.

W.Va. Democrats Raise Sights On Jobless Question

By BILL BARRETT

United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Democrats in the House of Delegates raised their sights Thursday and asked their colleagues in the State Senate to join in developing a bigger spending program to aid unemployed workers in West Virginia.

Delegates took the action in a 45-minute closed meeting after an hour-long business session. House Speaker Harry R. Pauley said most of them favored a program costing up to $8,000,000. That would be nearly double a $4,500,000 plan agreed on at a joint House-Senate Democratic caucus Monday.

While the House Democrats were caucusing, Senate President Ralph J. Bean launched into another no-holds-barred attack on Gov. Cecil H. Underwood whom he accused of being "more interested in his own political future than West Virginia's hunger."

It was the second time in three days Bean left the rostrum to deliver a shouting, desk-pounding blast at Underwood.

After most delegates and senators had left the statehouse in the late afternoon, Bean and Pauley headed groups from both chambers in a private huddle to try again to reach agreement on a joint program as a result of the House caucus. There was no immediate indication of agreement.

Vote Was 44-6

United Press International learned Democratic delegates voted 44-6 in their session to direct the leadership to develop a "bigger and better" public works program.

Pauley said most of the additional money would go into state parks and forest improvements.

Earlier in the week Democrats agreed to spend $1,400,000 for park improvements, $1,000,000 in a program of teaching jobless workers new skills and about $2,000,000 to provide families of the jobless additional food to supplement their diets from surplus food handouts.

Pauley said there was no specific breakdown on how the larger amounts would be distributed in these three phases. He said other plans might be developed during the weekend when he talks with some delegates in an effort to come up with a tax program to finance the increased spending.

Bean's speech came after Sen. Joseph Handlan (R-Wood) challenged the Democrats to come out with a "courageous" program to relieve unemployment. Handlan also pleaded for cooperation by the Democrats with the Republican administration.

Bean took the bait.

"The majority has tried many times to cooperate with the governor but we don't have the money to travel around the nation trying to catch up with him," Bean shouted.

"On several occasions we've tried to cooperate with the governor and if he would stay in West Virginia long enough, we would be delighted to work with him."

Minor Debate

The Senate rolled through a routine business agenda once it got down to business after the speech making. The House action was interspersed with minor debate, biggest of which was an effort to channel revenue from the $1,750,000 increase in whiskey prices into parks improvements. Del. William Parker (D-Marietta), who was one of those who opposed the scaled-down Democratic program, sponsored the move but lost after Finance Chairman Julius Singleton said it would be better to keep revenue measures flexible at this time and allocate money later. He was joined in this view by Del.

Charles Bachmann (R-Ohio).

The Senate adopted a resolution calling on the State Road Commission to keep in good shape state roads leading into parks and forest areas.

Milk Break Duet With Buttermilk Doughnuts

One of the most tantalizing aromas anytime — anywhere — is that of homemade doughnuts, fresh, warm and sugar-coated. And the beauty of them is that they are truly a wholesome treat for after school refreshments, to serve when friends drop in for a visit, or as a breakfast treat on these cool days.

Choose a not-so-busy morning or afternoon to make them. Here are a few basic hints which will assure success, even for beginner cooks:

First, take a recipe that forms a moist dough. Buttermilk is a liquid ingredient which is frequently used because of the flavor and tenderness it imparts. Mix ingredients lightly until all of the flour is moistened. Last, fry the doughnuts in fat that has been heated to the correct temperature. A deep fat frying thermometer is the best way to eliminate guesswork.

If you don't have a heavy pan in which to fry the doughnuts, don't scurry out to buy one. Your electric fry pan will do nicely.

For a fragrant, feather-light doughnuts, try this recipe. It calls for buttermilk as well as warm mashed potatoes. To save time, Beatrice Cooke, home economics director for the dairy company suggests that you use instant potatoes reconstituted with part water and milk.

Buttermilk Doughnuts

(About Five Dozen)
3 eggs, beaten
2 cups sugar
1½ cups warm mashed potatoes
¼ cup butter, melted
1 cup buttermilk
6 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Add sugar to eggs; beat until well mixed. Stir in potatoes, butter and buttermilk. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix only until flour is completely moistened. Chill dough at least 1 hour. Roll one-third of dough at a time on lightly floured surface to one-half inch thickness. Cut with a floured doughnut cutter. Let rest 10-15 minutes. Fry in hot, deep fat (370 degrees) for about 1½ to 2 minutes on each side, turning once.

When doughnuts are golden brown, lift from fat to paper toweling to cool slightly. Then roll in confectioners' sugar, or a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon. Frost some, if you wish, with chocolate butter icing and sprinkle on tiny candies or chopped nuts.

Chipped Beef Stars In Casserole

Tonight for a change, treat the family to a new type casserole... one featuring chipped beef in combination with chopped green pepper and onion, seasonings, grated American cheese, chopped ripe olive and cooked macaroni.

More and more, homemakers are learning to use such versatile meat items as canned meats, sausages and dried beef, more commonly known as chipped beef, in everyday dishes.

Often these meats were reserved for emergency use only. Chipped beef has become a favorite when creamed and served over toast points.

These canned meats, sausages and specialties such as chipped beef can be served at breakfast, lunch or dinner.

Chipped Beef Macaroni Casserole

5 ounces chipped beef, cut in strips
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon marjoram
1 cup grated American cheese
½ cup chopped ripe olives
2 cups cooked macaroni

Cook green pepper and onion in butter or margarine until tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in flour and gradually add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add thyme, marjoram and cheese. Stir until cheese melts. Mix sauce with chipped beef, olives and macaroni. Pour into a greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

Turkey-Chip Croquettes

½ cup rendered turkey fat or butter
½ cup flour
1¼ cups turkey broth (from cooking giblets)
2 egg yolks
¾ cup coffee cream
2½ cups finely diced turkey (no skin)
½ cup chopped celery
Salt and Pepper to taste
½ cup finely crumbed potato chips
1 egg beaten with 1 tbsp. water
Shortening for frying
Parsley

Heat fat in top of double boiler over direct heat. Blend in flour, add broth slowly, stirring to keep smooth. Cook and stir until sauce

Frozen Peas Sparkle In Baked Chicken Salad

Refreshingly different is this use of leftover roast chicken or turkey in a hot baked salad. The usual mayonnaise, celery, and diced poultry mixture is not only baked, but livened with the spring sweetness of frozen green peas, then topped with bread cubes and grated cheese before baking.

Serve Baked Chicken Salad from a big casserole for a buffet supper men will enjoy, or as individual hot salads in smart little covered ramekins for a ladies' luncheon.

Crunchy sliced almonds, minced onion and scarlet pimiento give extra flavor and color to the baked salad. For sophisticated palates, lemon juice provides still further accent, but to preserve the newly-shelled glowing green color of the frozen peas, omit the lemon juice, which tends to dim it. Either way, the peas keep the vine-fresh taste which distinguishes the frozen variety.

Try Curried Lamb Chops

It's fun to introduce new ideas and plans but it is not always an easy matter to convince others of the same.

In the homemaker's realm of creativity, new recipe ideas, different room arrangements or changes in a color scheme can sometimes cause a bit of unrest. It's her job to educate the family's tastes or thoughts and give this new change a fair trial.

A home economist constantly introducing new culinary ideas in the meat cookery field offers this recipe, Lamb Chops With Curry, to those homemakers interested in new culinary endeavors.

A familiar meat cut, lamb shoulder chops, is accented with a curry flavor. Here again, one must be careful when introducing a pronounced flavor such as curry.

The chops are dredged in a combination of flour, curry powder, salt and pepper. After browning they are slowly braised in a small amount of water flavored with a bouillon cube.

Lamb Chops With Curry

- 4 lamb shoulder chops, cut 1/4 inch thick
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 bouillon cube
- 1/4 cup hot water
- Chutney, if desired

Combine flour, curry powder, salt and pepper. Dredge chops in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Dissolve bouillon cubes in hot water and add to lamb. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes or until tender. Serve with chutney, if desired. Yield: 4 servings.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Bleary eyes will look less nightmarish if they are splashed with cool water, then packed with alternate hot and cold cloths.

Crying Convenience

One of the most common forms of ancient glass containers found in Egyptian ruins today are tiny bottles, used by mourners to catch their tears.

Savory Meat Loaf Ring

- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 egg
- 1 cup prepared seasoned dry bread crumbs*
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- 2 lbs. ground chuck
- 1/4 cup sherry wine

Green Bean Succotash

Apple-pepper Relish

Saute onion in butter until delicate brown. Beat egg; add seasoned crumbs, oregano, basil, salt, pepper and apple sauce; mix. Add meat and onion; mix thoroughly. Put meat in greased ring mold or form into ring on baking pan. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, 30 minutes. Dribble sherry over meat and bake 30 minutes longer. Remove to platter; place bean succotash in center. Serve with Apple-Pepper Relish. Makes 8 servings.

*If plain dry bread crumbs are used increase amounts of the seasoning.

Apple-Pepper Relish

- 1 1/2 cups chopped sweet red pepper
- 2 cups chopped green pepper
- 2 cups chopped celery
- 2 cups chopped yellow onion
- 2 1/2 cups cider vinegar
- 1 cup sugar
- 4 cups canned apple sauce
- 1 tablespoon salt

Suggestion: To chop vegetables put through medium knife of food chopper. Combine red and green peppers, celery and onion; cover with boiling water; let stand 5 minutes. Drain well. Cover again with boiling water; let stand 10 minutes. Drain thoroughly. Add vinegar, sugar, apple sauce and salt. Boil 15-20 minutes, stirring occasionally, until thickened. Pour into hot sterilized glasses. Seal at once. Makes 9 1/2 cups.

Foreign Flair Seen In This Lamb Stew

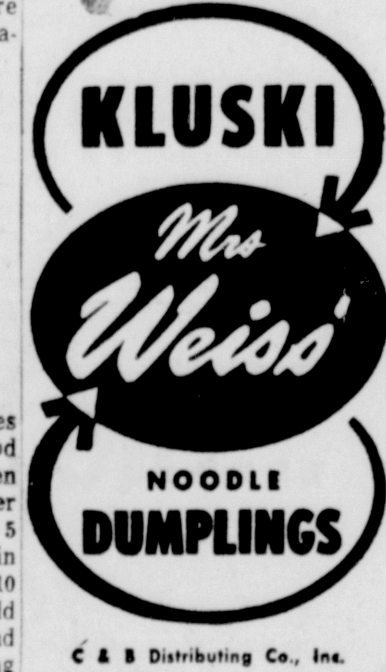

Here is a stew that demands attention. It's called Orange Curried Lamb Stew and you might file among your very special recipe ideas.

Lamb might be considered the most popular meat in Near Eastern countries and certainly the spice, curry, is used as frequently in that part of the world as you'd use salt and pepper. Lamb takes to curry so it's only natural that a stew of this caliber is the result of such a combination.

In addition, orange juice, cinnamon, allspice and raisins add their individual flavors to this popular recipe. As with many curried dishes, seasoned cooked rice and toasted coconut are popular accompaniments.

Orange Curried Lamb Stew

- 2 pounds boneless lamb, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup frozen concentrated

C & B Distributing Co., Inc.

- orange juice
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 cup white raisins
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/4 cup water
- 4 cups seasoned cooked rice
- 1 cup toasted coconut

Combine lamb, salt, lemon juice, orange juice, 1/4 cup water, make the beverage.

onion, celery, curry powder, cinnamon, allspice and raisins in frying-pan. Cover tightly and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Thicken cooking liquid with cornstarch and 1/4 cup water. Mix cooked rice and toasted coconut and serve with lamb. Yield: 6 servings.

Punch, as a beverage, probably was named after a Hindu word meaning five. This was usually used to number the ingredients used to juice, orange juice, 1/4 cup water, make the beverage.

W.Va. Needs $700,000 For State Parks

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy) was told Wednesday the Conservation Commission needs an additional $700,000 besides an equal sum already in the 1960-61 budget document to bring the state's parks in proper state of repair.

In a letter to Bean, Parks Chief Kermit McKeever said he had requested a total of $1,183,377 in general revenue funds to operate and maintain the state's 20 parks. The State Board of Public Works reduced that request to $535,840 before sending it to the Legislature.

And besides the additional $700,000, McKeever said, the commission could use another $241,000 to develop the parks' camping facilities.

Last Monday, Democrats from both houses agreed to consider the appropriation of $1,400,000 to make necessary repairs to state parks.

Resolutions introduced in both houses Wednesday would direct the commission to hire jobless workers without public assistance benefits on any parks work which might be done if the Legislature does appropriate additional funds.

B&O Will Dig Trench For Sewer

B & O crews will excavate for a storm sewer line along railroad tracks from South Street to Ontario, according to Franklin J. Blaney, assistant city engineer.

He said the railroad plans to begin excavation work immediately and to tap into an existing catch basin.

The line is expected to provide temporary relief for cellar flooding in the area and will serve until the B & O builds a permanent manhole to connect to a 30-inch sewer line which crosses the tracks.

On a permanent basis, it will provide excess capacity for carrying off storm water.

Brink's Holdup, Biggest In U.S. History, Classic In Crime Annals

Editor's Note—Ten years ago, a brazen band of robbers staged the richest holdup in the annals of U.S. crime. Had it not been for an argument inside the gang, they might have gotten away with it. Here's an anniversary review of a classic holdup and an up-to-date report on the crime's lingering, violent aftermath.

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP) — Five men worked late into the night in the heavily barred second-floor offices of the big armored car garage on Prince Street in Boston's North End.

They were handling millions of dollars in cash and securities, routinely packaging fat bundles of bills and payrolls in preparation

Trailer Tax Paid

The 28th trailer arrival tax of $10 has just been paid at the Allegany County Court House by the owner of a trailer located in Potomac Park.

Jacob Miller, RFD 5, Potomac Park, is the latest to pay the $10 fee under a new law which became effective last June 1.

Under this measure, each house and trailer moved into the county for more than 30 days must be equipped with a county tag. This tag is obtained with the payment of a $10 arrival tax. The trailer is then placed on the county tax books and the $10 arrival tax is credited on the property tax bill issued to the trailer owner.

for the next day's deliveries by Brink's, Inc. to banks, investment houses and business offices.

Secure in a cage-like room formed by a heavy wire screen and with six locked doors between them and the street, the men had taken off their sidearms.

Suddenly there came a hoarse bark: "Open up!"

"This is a stickup—don't make trouble."

With pistols aimed through the wire partition stood a group of men, identically dressed in dark trousers, navy-type pea jackets, chauffeur-style caps and grotesque rubber Halloween masks.

It was exactly 7:10 p.m. One of the Brink's men opened the locked door in the cage. The bandits quickly tied the workers, silenced them with adhesive tape over their mouths and forced them to lie face down on the floor.

They produced heavy canvas bags and began stuffing them with bundles of cash and securities.

Twenty minutes later the building was quiet again—even quieter than before, with the only sound the trussed Brink's men struggling to free themselves.

By 7:37 p.m. one succeeded and hit the alarm which started one of the biggest, longest and most costly manhunts in history.

The loot that winter night 10 years ago Jan. 17 was $1,218,211.29 in cash—the biggest cash haul in the history of U.S. crime. The loot included another $1,557,183.83 in checks, bonds and securities.

Some of the latter were negotiated by Brink's, Inc. to banks, investment houses and business offices.

Fantastic as was the robbery, the full story of how it was planned and carried out was even more fabulous.

That story was told finally by one of the men who planned it and carried it out, for there was no honor among these thieves.

Why did he tell?

Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe sang because his pals first gypped him of most of his share of the loot and then imported a hired gunman to silence him when he complained. The hired gun failed, although he came close. O'Keefe escaped a hail of machine-gun slugs with only a wrist injury.

From the witness stand in Suffolk Superior Court in 1956, O'Keefe told how the gang—which numbered 11 men—cased the joint for months. Finally they made the first move. The watchman's rounds had been timed, and when the gang was sure of a period when an outside door would not be tried, they picked the lock. Now came the slickest part of the plan. They took the outside lock right out of the door and had a key made—returning the lock before it was missed. They did up eight of the men. Two others the same with other locks inside the building over a period of many months. That's how they were able to walk in so quietly and surprise the Brink's men at work.

After the robbery the gang drove to the home of a member. The money bags were unloaded quickly—simply heaved over a hedge and left for the time being. The truck was dismantled and hly will be delayed as long as the eight convicted men have any chance to appeal.

The gang found the loot too much to count the night they got it. And they were in a hurry. It wouldn't do for them to be caught together. All had criminal records. Nearly all were questioned in succeeding months by police investigators.

Three years after the robbery all but one of the gang were called before a federal grand jury which conducted an investigation on the eve of the expiration of the three-year U.S. statute of limitations. The detectives were very close to the truth they could not, at that time, prove. They were unable to obtain indictments.

O'Keefe got into a jam in Pennsylvania. Caught with a loaded pistol, he was sentenced to a prison term.

When O'Keefe got out and came home to demand his share of some of the undivided money, the abortive attempt was made on his life.

O'Keefe went to jail again in 1955, and after many months finally confessed the Brink's job.

On Jan. 12, 1956, the FBI rounded up eight of the men. Two others were grabbed later. With O'Keefe as the state's star witness, the eight men were tried later that year. All eight were convicted and were sentenced to life terms in state prison. They still are appealing.

O'Keefe, who pleaded guilty to robbery charges, still is in jail awaiting sentencing. That probably will be delayed as long as the eight convicted men have any chance to appeal. The eight men doing life are: Henry Baker, 52, of Natick; Adolph (Jazz) Maffie, 47, of Quincy; Joseph F. McGinnis, 55, of Boston; Vincent J. Costa, 44, of Pembroke; Michael V. Geagan, 56, of Milton; Anthony Pino, 51, of Boston; Thomas F. Richardson, 51, of Weymouth, and James I. Fagherty, 47, of Boston.

Elmer (Trigger) Burke, the New York gunman, imported to silence O'Keefe, was arrested on a charge of possessing a machine gun the day after the failure of his attempt on O'Keefe's life.

What happened to the loot?

The checks and securities simply disappeared, probably destroyed by the gang members.

Nearly all the cash was split among them—about $100,000 each. None of that ever was recovered.

Bulldogs Host Sentinels In CVAL Contest

Bruce To Invade Piedmont, Parsons Faces Southern

The 79th game of the basketball series between the Explorers of LaSalle High School and the Campers of Allegany High School will be staged today at 8 p.m. before a packed house at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

This will be the third game of the triangular series for the city championship which ended in a triple tie last season. The first two games were thrillers in which LaSalle defeated Fort Hill on the latter's court, 52-50, while Allegany eked out a 49-48 decision over Fort Hill at Campobello. Thus, LaSalle and Allegany are now tied at 1-0 in the city race and the winner of tonight's game will take over the lead.

Campers Lead 49-28

In the 77 games played by these schools since 1921, Allegany leads by the margin of 21, having won 49 to LaSalle's 28. Twenty-five of the 77 games have been decided by the margin of one to three points. One point separated the teams at the finish on nine occasions.

Coach Chester G. Payne's Campers take an eight-game winning streak into tonight's game and their overall mark is 9-3. LaSalle won its first 13 games of the season before losing at Valley High School on Tuesday night by the score of 73-61.

Leaders Vs. Tailenders
It will be a battle between the leader and the occupant of the basement in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League when Martinsburg High School engages Fort Hill's Sentinels tonight on the West Virginians' court.

The Bulldogs are the only unbeaten team in the league with a 5-0 record. Fort Hill is the only winless quint in the six-school circuit, owning an 0-6 record. Martinsburg copped the opening game of the series here by the score of 52-41.

Unbeaten In Action
Romney and Piedmont, only undefeated teams in the tri-state area, play on their home courts tonight.

Clyde Green's Pioneers will be running for their 14th consecutive victory when they host the Ridgeley Blackhawks in the final of their season series. Romney, 10-0 in the P.V.C., copped the opener from the Hawks by the score of 87-45.

Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont Lions will be angling for their 13th win in a row when they conclude their two-game Tri-Towns series with the Bruce High Bulldogs tonight in Piedmont. Bruce has won eight games and lost three, including a 50-43 setback in the series opener.

Seek Ninth Straight
Coach Carl Schoonover's Southern High quint puts an eight-game victory skein on the line when it tackles the Parsons Panthers tonight in Oakland. The Garrett Countians are 9-2 for the season and one of their wins was scored at the expense of Parsons, 72-60.

In addition to the Ridgeley-Romney game, other Friday action in the P.V.C. finds West Virginia School for the Deaf at Fort Ashby, Circleville at Elk Garden, Petersburg at Franklin and Moorefield at Mathias.

Hedgesville visits Wardensville, Berkeley Springs is at Harpers Ferry and Tygart Valley High of Mill Creek plays Mountaineer High at Thomas, W.Va.

Bedford Hosts Hyndman
Hyndman High's Hornets battle the Bedford High Bisons in a Bedford County League game at Bedford. Mel Henry's North Hagerstown Hubs tackle the Owls at Westminster and Homer Brooks' Frederick Cadets play at Glenelg.

YMCA Arranges Swim Meet
Central YMCA will hold a swimming meet for boys and girls between the ages of eight and 18 at 2 p.m. Saturday in the "Y" pool, according to George Strachan, aquatic director.

Purpose of the meet is to provide a chance for the youth of Cumberland to compete in swimming and to choose boys and girls for the swimming team. If enough girls enter the meet to enable a team to be chosen, they will compete against the Hagerstown YMCA girls' swimming team in a meet to be held in Cumberland at 3:30 p.m. February 13.

Boys and girls will not swim together but will swim against members of their own sex in their respective age groups. These groups are cadet, 10 and under; prep, 11 and 12; junior, 13, 14 and 15, and senior, 16-18. There will be a small entrance fee for each swimmer.

Rudolph Leads San Diego Open With Score 63

Younger Golfers Dominate Picture

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—

Mason Rudolph, a brilliant young prospect in professional golf, shot a record 9-under-par 63 Thursday to lead a mass assault on par in the first round of the $20,000 San Diego Open.

The 25-year-old ex-Memphis State amateur star from Clarksville, Tenn., toured the Mission Valley Country Club's flat acres, with its par 36-36—72, in 31-32.

The round broke the tournament record of 64 set by Tommy Bolt in 1955 and tied by Al Balding in 1957 and Marty Furgol in winning this event in 1959.

Golf's younger generation generally dominated the picture. Allen Geiberger of Santa Barbara, Calif., a ranking California amateur until he turned pro last year, shot a 33-31—64. Dave Marr, young Texas pro now at Cedarhurst, N.Y., had 32-34—66.

With such established pros as Julius Boros and Billy Maxwell shooting 74s, and Jack Burke Jr., a 75, it wasn't until late in the day that the old guard crept into the upper echelons.

Mike Souchak had a 34-33—67 and a tie with Don January, Al Balding and newcomers Bill Ezinnick from North Reading, Mass., and Sammy Reynolds from Springfield, Mo.

Art Wall Jr. with 34-34. Tommy Bolt with 32-36, and Dutch Harrison, 34-34, were tied at 68 with Jack Ellis of Wilmette, Ill., Joel Taylor of Denver and amateur Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., at 68.

Hartack Loses On Favorites

Finishes 2nd, 3rd In Hialeah Races

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—Jockey Bill Hartack's continuing role as the hero of Hialeah was short-circuited today as he was beaten on heavy favorites in the co-featured Matecumbe and Sanibel purses.

Hartack finished second with odds-on Quiz Star in the Matecumbe; then was third with Mineral Board, at even money, in the Sanibel. He completed the day with no winners in five mounts, but remained leading rider at the meeting with 18 victories.

Quiz Star was pinched back at the break in the Matecumbe Purse but Hartack rushed him into contention on the far turn. He moved into second-place behind pace-setting Eurasia but was unable to catch him. Eurasia went under the wire 1 3/4 lengths in front and paid $12.30. Quiz Star had 3 1/2 lengths over Currito for second money. The winner was ridden by Sam Boumeltes and ran 1 1/16 miles on the turf in 1:43, equalling the track record.

In the Sanibel, Hartack and Mineral Board broke slowly. The favorite moved into third place after a quarter mile but went even the rest of the way to finish behind stretch drive and Big Klu. Stretch Drive, ridden by Henry Moreno, caught Big Klu on the stretch turn and won by 1 1/2 lengths. Mineral Board was seven lengths behind the winner. Stretch Drive ran six furlongs in 1:10 3/5 and paid $24.30.

Frank Lloyd Wright was the greatest phrase-maker in the history of architecture. The buildings never lived up to the phrases, if for no other reason than that no buildings could. Of any building, he said it should be "at home on its site, like a swan on a lake," and of the Kalita P. Humphreys Theater here, last building of his ever built, he said it was designed "to liberate the stage from the shackles of tradition and afford a more plastic and intimate means of dramatic presentation."

The theater is just twelve rows deep, holding 440 persons. The stage is a circle, flanked by two rectangular areas, over which are two low-lying balconies. Any part of this or all of it can be used for the action. "It looks as if you could hold it in the palm of your hand," said Paul Baker. It does, too—very close to the audience and intimate. "Actually, from this door to that is eighty-five feet." The yellow curtain enfolds only the circle. The rest is bare.

The lighting is concealed in five concentric recessed circles, fanning out from the stage. "This is the latest board designed by George Eisenhower," said Baker, showing me the master switchboard. "There are 230 outlets for lights. Three shows can be set up simultaneously and by turning a switch we can change from one to another. Lights are what take so much time in the theater. You can set scenery faster than lights." But the theater is equally well equipped for scene changes. Baker showed me the board controlling the revolving stage, which has five speeds and which has a little miniature showing the operator exactly what the stage is doing. Another board controls scenery changes which are done electrically. Only one other theater in the country has that.

"That is very much Frank Lloyd Wright—as you very well know if you've seen the Guggenheim Museum in New York," said Baker, pointing to a curving ramp—something Wright had a passion for in his declining years. We walked down it to the base.

"This is our workshop, where we design and build scenery. Also our storage space. Over there," he waved casually to the corner, "is 'Of Time and the River.' We can get it out in thirty minutes, put it on the lift and set it up. This is true repertory theater. This is the only resident repertory theater in the country. I don't know if anyone wants swan on a lake."

The only resident repertory theater in the country opened Jan. 1 with "Of Time and the River." Its second, and at the moment only other production is an original, "The Cross-Eyed Bear," by Gene McKinney. This is a play which shows there are no absolutes of good and evil. It opened with the rehearsal of a church pageant; the characters frankly labelled "Good," "Evil," "Love." Everyman. The rehearsal is acrimonious and degenerates into a brawl in which "Good" steps out of character and gives "Evil" a black eye. "You look guilty," somebody says to Evil. "It's my costume," explains Evil, apologetically.

It's quite funny and gay. Later it gets quite serious. The trouble with any play about Everyman, as Walter Kerr has said, is that Everyman is No Man. Plays with characters named Love and Evil have to be consistently, unremittably brilliant to hold the audience—and few, if any, ever are, including this one. But the play is wildly inventive. Several bits use movie screens, one of them showing George Washington crossing the Delaware while doing a singing commercial for "Truth and Nothing But the Truth."

The revolving stage is used to stunning effect at one time to separate past time from present time. The players at the apron at right are on current right-now time, while those on the slowly moving stage are engaged in actions that have taken place earlier—a sort of living semi-consciousness, as it were. Even the overhead balconies come into play, giving the actors another dimension. The audience is very close to the actors and to the play in this theater, whose stage is only a few feet high.

Harwell Hamilton Harris has said of this theater: "It is a shell cradling space, the space cradling movement, the movement made whimsical by pattern which utilizes all that affects the senses and can be measured and followed by eye, ear, or foot." Well, perhaps it is. But this vitality is not an unmixed blessing. As in every other building Wright ever designed, the architecture has a tendency to overwhelm the actor and the play and especially the scene designer, who must almost compete against the building.

"We're going to be a playwright's theater," Baker told me later. "Of the five things we've

Mothers' Fund March Termed Successful

Early Returns
Total $1,847

Spotty returns from the county Mothers' March of Dimes indicated early last night that this year's drive will be much more successful than last year's. Miss Henrietta Lippold, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the National Foundation said.

By 10:15 p. m., returns from such early reporting areas as the Cumberland West Side, Oldtown, East Side, Corriganville and other has brought in a total of $1,847, Miss Lippold said. This compares with $1,836.34 last year and $2,775.92 in 1958.

Miss Lippold said Oldtown was the first to report shortly after 8 o'clock and the others came in gradually but steadily. The tempo picked up greatly after 9:30 p. m., she stated.

Early Returns

A breakdown of collections showed Oldtown-Mexico Farms with $75; Cresaptown, $126.46; Corriganville and Cash Valley, $101; Ellerslie, $83.30; Potomac Park, McMullen Highway, Bowling Green, Fairgo, $160; Greene Street, $36.45; Centre and Mechanic Streets, $16.71; Washington Street, $103.57; Baltimore Avenue, Decatur and Henderson Avenue, $57.30; North End, $446.79; East Side, $193.26; Penn. Avenue $198.

Miss Lippold also reported a surprising number of returns were received early at March of Dimes headquarters on the survey being conducted by Marching Mothers.

Although the Mothers' March was not conducted in most areas until 7 o'clock last night, some mothers already had canvassed their areas for contributions and left survey forms with residents. Many of these forms arrived at headquarters in yesterday morning's mail, Miss Lippold stated.

Survey Made

The survey forms contain five simple questions to determine the extent of polio, arthritis and birth defects, and will be left at all homes contacted by the mothers.

In addition to last night's concerted drive throughout the county which was preceded by Cresaptown's fund drive on Wednesday night, several other areas will be covered today, Saturday and Sunday.

Still to be canvassed are such areas as Mt. Savage, Cumberland Street, and several others. Unreported from last night's march are South End, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Midland, LaVale, Westport, Luke, Union Grove and Bedford Road.

Mrs. Elizabeth Higgs, chairman of the Mothers' March of Dimes in Cresaptown said, "We were wonderfully accepted."

"In one hour, the returns from Cresaptown were more than 100 per cent greater than from last year's Mothers' March."

March of Dimes officials are hoping the trend will continue through the completion of the fund campaign. Officials planned to remain at March of Dimes headquarters last night until all returns had been counted.

W. E. McCleary Takes Oath As Board Extra

William E. McCleary, 216 North Centre Street, received his oath of office yesterday afternoon from Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, as the substitute Democratic member of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors for the remainder of a two-year term running until the first Monday in June 1961.

A native of Bayard in Grant County, W. Va., Mr. McCleary has been active in Democratic political circles since coming to Cumberland in 1924 but he never has held a public office before. He has worked in the precinct and headquarters level in local, state and county elections.

A machinist's helper at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Bolt and Forge, Mr. McCleary is a past president of Local 885 Machinists' Helpers Association and has served as shop chairman. Married, he is a past president of the El Fidel Club and belongs to Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. McCleary has been interested in sports locally, having participated in baseball, basketball, football and bowling. As substitute member of the election board, he will be called upon to serve whenever Matthew J. Mullaney, board chairman, or John Zapf, the other Democratic member, is unable to serve. Another B&O man, Victor M. Hebb, is the Republican member of the board. The substitute Republican member is Mrs. Maxine Squires.

His correct commission arrived at the Court House yesterday, signed by Governor J. Millard Tawes and Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan. His first commission last week had his name misspelled as McCleary.

Shooting Match Today

Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company will hold a shooting match at the fire hall at 7:30 p. m. today. Hams and turkeys will be given as prizes, and all shooting will be done from indoors.

Prepare For Sunday Concert

These are three of the more than 50 musicians who will be heard Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the first annual winter concert of the Allegany County Youth Wind Ensemble in the Allegany High School auditorium. Pictured, left to right, are Linda Gipe, a ninth grader at Allegany, who plays the flute; Tom Seifert, one of the adults augmenting the ensemble, playing the tuba, and Freddie Rowe, Parkside School, who plays the cornet. Dr. Frank A. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the county schools, organized the ensemble several years ago with outstanding musicians in the elementary grades. The unit now includes grade school and junior high school musicians. No admission will be charged.

Former Local Educator Gets Fulbright Grant

A Garrett County native who later served as a teacher and principal in Allegany County public schools has been awarded a Fulbright grant for two months' study abroad.

This honor was accorded Dr. Raymond O. McCullough, who is now superintendent of schools in Talbot County on the Eastern Shore. He has been notified by the U.S. State Department that he will be one of about 20 school administrators from all sections of this country who will participate in seminars in Finland and France.

The program will consist of conferences with officials of the ministries of education in the two countries, conferences with officials of provincial school systems, extensive travel to visit various schools, and other educational activities arranged by the United States Cultural Exchange Commissions in Helsinki and Paris.

Dr. McCullough reports that he hopes to observe methods and procedures which will have value for Talbot County schools. He believes the conferences will prove mutually beneficial to the American administrators and the educators in France and Finland.

He particularly wants to observe the teaching of language in the two countries.

The native of Friendsville will leave New York by plane for Helsinki on Monday. While in Europe he hopes to have the opportunity to visit Miss Krista McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McKenzie, 61 Jackson Street, Lonaconing, in Germany. The McCulloughs visited the McKenzies home in Lonaconing during the New Year's holiday.

Dr. McCullough taught at Fort Hill High School before assuming the principalship at old Central High School in Lonaconing from 1948 until 1952. He succeeded Ralph R. Webster as principal at Allegany High School and left that position in 1956 to accept the superintendency at Easton.

The President's Cup award for the last six months of 1958 was made to Nemaconin Trail District for the highest honors in membership and advancement.

Clarence Lippel, president of the council, presented the cup to Robert Zarefoss, who accepted the award for John Geare, Nemaconin Trail chairman, who was unable to attend the meeting.

Another award was made by M. G. Thompson, council commissioner, to Mr. Zarefoss for the district with the biggest percentage of subscriptions during 1959 to "Boy's Life," the national scouting magazine.

The executive committee also voted unanimously last night to move the scout headquarters from its present site in the County Building to quarters at 417 North Mechanic Street.

The scout office must move by February 1 to make room for the County Health Department which will occupy the second floor of the Union Street building. The Mechanic Street building formerly housed the Mennonite Church, and earlier, Grace Baptist Church.

In other action last night, the council heard a report by Willis V. Smith, scout executive, who outlined the growth of Potomac Council during the past 10 years.

Mr. Smith said that in the past decade the local council has grown from a membership of 45 units and a total registration of 1,169 boys to the current 98 units and 2,519 boys in the three districts.

Ivan Hall, who reported on council membership, noted that a goal of 2,975 boys has been set for this year. Mr. Hall reported that Nemaconin District now has a membership of 1,506 boys; Tri-Valley, 788 boys; and Deep Creek, 225. He added that the local council ranked eighth in percentage gained during 1958 in region three.

John L. Towler reported on the advancements within the council and said 1,109 boys were advanced in 1959, as compared with 903 in 1958.

Camping and activities during 1959 were reported on by Charles Newman, field executive, for Ross O. Decker, chairman of the committee, who was unable to attend the session. Mr. Newman reported that last year the council had its highest percentage of youths at camp.

A yearly report also was made by Harry Biggs, chairman of the jamboree committee, and James Warden and Henry Price, who gave the annual financial report.

PROMOTED — James R. "Jim" Wilson, 38, of Mt. Pleasant Road, has been named supervising agent of the Western Maryland Railway. He will take over his new system-wide post Monday and will be stationed in Hagerstown.

Men Charged With Passing Bad Checks

Detainer warrants have been obtained by the State Police for two men sought here for passing bad checks.

Sgt. William F. Baker secured the warrants yesterday for Harold James Locke, 22, Saxton, Pa., and John W. Matthews, 46, a former resident of here, both of whom are being held in West Virginia and Pennsylvania jails on similar charges.

Locke was arrested last week in Pennsylvania, and is being held in the Bedford County Jail. He is charged with passing a bad check for $40 at a market in Cresaptown.

Sgt. Baker said Matthews is being sought here for passing a bad check for $50 at a market in LaVale. He is being held in the Mineral County Jail at Keyser.

The detainer warrants will be forwarded to authorities in Pennsylvania and Keyser.

Sgt. Baker was assisted with the investigation in the cases by Tfc. Milton G. Hart.

Henry Holzshu Named To Head Realtors Board

Speaker Praises Unit's Progress

"This is the best organized board I have ever observed in operation," W. Douglas Buttner, vice president of Weaver Brothers, realtors, and loan correspondent, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Baltimore, told the Board of Realtors of Cumberland at a meeting last night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, at which officers of the local board were elected for the coming year.

J. Henry Holzshu, vice president and treasurer of the J. H. Holzshu Company, realtors, was elected president of the Cumberland board. During the past year he has served as vice president and chairman of the board's public affairs committee. He also served a previous term as president—in 1951.

A graduate of Mercersburg Academy and Lehigh University, Mr. Holzshu has been a qualified realtor for 23 years. He is a member of the Cumberland Rotary Club; Ali Ghan Shrine; Potomac Lodge, Scottish Rite; Loyal Order of Moose; and Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

C. Glenn Watson Jr. was elected vice president, and Bert J. Graham and D. P. Goodfellow were re-elected to the offices of secretary and treasurer respectively. Howard M. Spiker, the new officers and promised full cooperation during their administration.

Congratulates Board

Mr. Buttner congratulated the local Board of Realtors for its progressive activities and gave the members a complete background on modern financing, drawing a scholarly picture of the international money market and citing examples in American dollars and British pounds.

He gave an insight into the New York mortgage market and pointed out that all borrowers, from home owners to industries, are competing for the same mortgage money.

Discussing at length the discounting of FHA loans on existing homes, in which the seller must pay the discount, he revealed that Cumberland qualifies under the FHA's Certified Agency Program, even though the program is designed for communities of less than 20,000 population.

A waiver has been granted for Cumberland, he said, which enables Weaver Brothers, under the CAP program, to make FHA-insured loans readily available at favorable terms without waiting for approval of the district FHA office.

Life insurance companies, Mr. Buttner said, when they lend money in an area in which they have many policyholders, are simply returning the policyholders' savings to the grass roots for the benefit of the people with whom it originates.

Loan correspondents such as Weaver Brothers, he added, have no desire to compete with local thrift institutions, such as savings banks and savings and loan associations.

Suggests Teamwork

Mr. Buttner recommended that Realtors, home builders and mortgage bankers get together frequently and work together as a team to seek an understanding of how best to serve the public interest.

During the business session of last night's meeting, C. Glenn Watson Sr. was honored by the board for his outstanding community spirit in contributing a building in South Cumberland to the Salvation Army.

James B. Reinhart reported on a meeting with the county commissioners on planning and zoning in this area. D. C. Goodfellow and Dennis Perrin sat in on the meeting with Mr. Reinhart.

Edgar A. Kendall gave a report as a delegate to a recent meeting of the Maryland State Real Estate Association.

There was a general discussion of the March 30 meeting.

LT. ROBERT A. CARNER

Robert Carner Given Guard Commission

The addition of a new officer to Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, Maryland National Guard, has been announced by Capt. Eugene M. Light, commanding officer of the unit here, with the appointment of First Lt. Robert A. Carner.

A review board consisting of Col. Randolph Millholland, assistant deputy division commander of the 29th Infantry Division; Major Paul B. Lord, executive officer of the First Medium Tank Battalion; and Major Charles D. Witt, Regular Army advisor for the tank battalion, accepted Lt. Carner in the Guard, awarded him temporary federal recognition as an officer and assigned him as platoon leader in Company C.

Lt. Carner resides at 316 Cumberland Street, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton L. Carner, 233 Virginia Avenue. He is married to the former Kathleen A. Wilson and the couple has one child. Lt. Carner presently is employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Lt. Carner's military career began with his enlistment in the Navy in World War II. He completed his tour of duty in the Pacific, then enlisted in the Regular Army in 1947. He was assigned as Army recruiting sergeant in Cumberland for three years.

Lt. Carner then received a commission as second lieutenant after graduation from Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1952. He served with the First Cavalry Regiment until he was discharged from the service in 1954. Lt. Carner will be completing 12 years' military service with his new assignment with the National Guard.

Commenting on his new duties, Lt. Carner said he comes "from a military family." During World War II Lt. Carner and his father saw active duty on two different battle fronts. His dad served in the European Theater while Lt. Carner was in the Pacific.

Visitors Barred From Institutions

Because of a number of cases of influenza among employees and patients at the County Infirmary, County Home and Sylvan Retreat, these institutions last night were closed to visitors, probably for about a week.

Commissioner William A. Wilson, who has responsibility for the county institutions, decided last night that visitors should no longer be permitted. This decision was reached on the recommendation of Dr. James E. McLean, county physician. Commissioners John J. Rowan and John T. Mason concurred in the decision.

Persons who wish to bring gifts to patients at the institutions may bring them to the door, where they will be accepted by an employee. Mr. Wilson said the decision to ban visitors was made in an effort to assure that an epidemic will not spread among the patients.

Jail Sentences Suspended In Neglect Case

Children Will Go To Foster Homes

Four members of a Westernport family were given suspended sentences yesterday in Juvenile Court after they were found guilty of neglect of 10 minor children.

Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin heard evidence in the case last Thursday, but withheld decision in the case until yesterday morning.

George and Margaret McManus, the parents of seven minor children, were given six-month suspended terms and placed on probation. Their two married daughters, Mrs. Annie Meyers and Mrs. Mary Ann Hier, each were given one-year suspended terms and placed on probation.

Magistrate Fatkin also ruled that three of the McManus children would be placed in foster homes. He added the other four children will remain at home and would be made wards of the court under the supervision of the Allegany County Welfare Department.

The magistrate also ruled that two minor children of Mrs. Hier would be placed in foster homes. The charges against McManus family stemmed from repeated complaints of residents of Westernport and Cumberland, where the family once resided, and from the Allegany County Board of Education and County Health Department.

Testimony at the hearing revealed that the children suffered from malnutrition and they were not provided with the proper clothing or food.

Police Dept. Is Briefed On Court Costs

A memorandum has been issued by City Solicitor William R. Carscaden to Chief of Police B. F. Gaffney clarifying practice on the collection of costs for fines and bonds in city police cases.

Chief Gaffney said under a recently passed city ordinance costs were set for various types of offenses such as speeding and parking violations. Under the ordinance the city could collect court costs for each case tried in Police Court.

However, due to a misunderstanding these costs were not always collected when bond was set at Police Headquarters prior to trial, he stated.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt recently pointed out that the city lost several hundred dollars in revenue because these costs were not collected in advance on bonds that were forfeited in Police Court.

Mr. Carscaden wrote to Chief Gaffney regarding the costs on fines and bonds:

"The imposition of costs in any particular case is at the discretion of the police magistrate. Ordinance No. 2172 provides that the rate of costs shall be as follows: parking, 50 cents; speeding, $1.45; and all other violations, $1.45.

"It is my understanding that if a person charged with a parking violation came into the police station and voluntarily paid a fine of $1 or $5 as the case may be, the officer on duty will charge no costs. If the person who was arrested desires to post bond and contest the case, the officer who receives the bond should charge an additional 50 cents in parking violations and $1.45 in all other cases."

Chief Gaffney said last night that officers on duty will collect costs according to the directive on all cases bound over or contested.

Magistrate Weatherholt yesterday noted five or six cases on the police docket in which bonds were forfeited by the person arrested, but no costs were collected. The new directive, he said, will straighten out the matter to the satisfaction of all concerned.
